ICTORIA AND NAPOLEON INTERCEDING FOR MAXIMILIAN.

he Presidential Boston Trip.

reparation of the Impeachment Report.

EGISTRATION IN VIRGINIA.

ebel General Longstreet Pardoned.

ecial Dispatch to Pittsburgh Commercial.
WASHINGTON, June 20, 1867.

Interceding for Maximilian.

Secretary Seward has received two highly important communications from Queen Victoria and the Emperor Napoleon, in which they hope that this Government will do all that it deems proper in the way of an intercession with the Liberal authorities in Mexico to save the life of Maximilian. The fact of this request has been communicated to Juarez, together with a repetition of the hope forwarded some time since to Juarez by Secretary Seward that Maximilian will not be treated otherwise than as a prisoner of war. It is not true, as stated, that the Secretary of State has made a formal demand that Maximilian's life be spared.

Illness of the President.

The President was taken suddenly quite ill last night, but to-day he is feeling much better, so that there will be no delay in the departure of the Presidential party to-morrow morning.

The Boston Trip.

The Knights Templar held their final meeting and will appear to-morrow in full regalia, to escort the President. Secretary Seward has detailed the official short hand writer of the State Department to accompany him. Postmaster Randall will be the only Cabinet member but Seward who goes with the party.

The Impeachment Report.

The Judiciary Committee will reassemble next Tuesday, to make up their report on the investigation for presentation to Congress, should there be a quorum in July. The evidence has all been printed and put into one volume of seven hundred pages. The proof copy printed for the Committee for daily use nearly doubled that number.

The Russian Treaty.

The formal notice of the ratification of the treaty with Russia having been received by our Government, the Secretary of the Treasury will at once prepare instructions regulating trade and revenue in our recently acquired Russian possessions. As the matter now stands all our trade and revenue regulations are subject to the approval or sufferance of the Russian Government.

"Do Not Register."

Is the heading of an Editorial in the Petersburg, Va., Express of Tuesday. This paper is the only one in Virginia that advises the citizens not to register. Even the Richmond Examiner to-day, which has until recently counselled inertia and delay, now says: "The citizen who can register but will not, will be as false to the State and people as if he were the the most deliberate and determined enemy."

WASHINGTON, June 20, 1867.

GEN. LONGSTREET PARDONED.

RATIFICATION OF RUSSIAN-AMERICAN TREATY.

THE CABINET.

Instructions to Military Commanders.

RESTORATION OF SOUTHERN OFFICIALS DELAYED.

Minutes of the Proceedings of Cabinet.

Special Dispatch to Pittsburgh Commercial.
WASHINGTON, June 20, 1867.

The fourth day's session of the Cabinet held this week adjourned early this afternoon. The instructions to military commanders relative to registration agreed on at the meeting on yesterday, were again revised and will probably be promulgated to-morrow. It seems evident at this writing that, owing to the temporary illness of the President and the large amount of business before the Cabinet, the issuance of orders to the various military commanders revoking their orders in certain cases of removals of Southern officials, will be delayed until after the President's return from his New England trip. The fact that it was determined to consider each of these cases separately has also necessitated a delay that would not have followed had a general order been agreed on, covering all of the removals.

By Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, June 20.—The conclusion of the President and Cabinet in reference to the interpretation of the military reconstruction laws is related in the following:

In Cabinet, June 18th, 1867. Present, the President, Secretary of State, Secretary of the Treasury, Secretary of War, Secretary of the Navy, Postmaster General, Attorney General, and Acting Secretary of the Interior. The President announced that he had under consideration the two opinions from the Attorney General as to legal questions arising upon the acts of Congress commonly known as the Reconstruction acts, and in view of the great magnitude of the subject and various interests involved, he deemed it proper to have it considered fully in Cabinet, and to avail himself of all the light which could be afforded by the opinions and advice of members of the Cabinet, to enable him so that these laws be faithfully executed, and to decide what orders and instructions are necessary and expedient to be given to military commanders.

The President said further that the branch of the subject that seemed to him first in order for consideration was as to instructions to be sent to military commanders for their guidance and the guidance of persons offering for registration. The instructions proposed by the Attorney General, as set forth in the summary contained in his last opinion, will therefore now be considered.

The summary was then read at length. The reading having been concluded, each section was then discussed, considered and adopted. First section unanimous, except the Secretary of War; second section ditto; third section unanimous; fourth section unanimous except the Secretary of War; fifth section unanimous; sixth section unanimous except the Secretary of War, who dissents to the second and third paragraphs; seventh section unanimous except the Secretary of War; eighth section unanimous; ninth section unanimous except the Secretary of War; tenth section unanimous; eleventh section do; twelfth section do; thirteenth section unanimous, but the Secretary of State and the Treasury expressed the opinion that lawyers are such officers as are disqualified if they participated in the rebellion; fourteenth section unanimous except the Secretary of War; fifteenth section unanimous; sixteenth section unanimous except the Secretary of War, who dissents to the second paragraph with the exception of the words, "where a person has by speech or by writing incited others to engage in rebellion, he must come under the disqualification;" seventeenth section unanimous; eighteenth section ditto; nineteenth section unanimous.

In Cabinet, June 20—Present, the same Cabinet officers as on the 18th, except the Acting Secretary of the Interior.

The President announced to the Cabinet that after full deliberation he concurred with the majority upon those sections of the summary to which the Secretary of War expressed his dissent, and he concurred with the Cabinet upon the section approved unanimously; that as it appeared the military commanders entertained doubts upon the points covered by the summary, and as their action hitherto had not been uniform, he deemed it proper without further delay to communicate in a general order to the respective commanders the points set forth in the summary.

MANSFIELD, OHIO.

Republican State Nominations—The Ticket Gives Great Satisfaction.

Special Dispatch to the Pittsburgh Commercial.
MANSFIELD, June 20, 1867.

The action of the Union State Convention gives great satisfaction here. No ticket could have been presented so acceptable to the Union men of this vicinity as that headed by Hayes and Galloway. The platform, too, is all that could be desired. Bold and manly in its tone, fully recognizing and accepting the great issue of the day, the Union men proudly step upon it, and go into the fight determined to win another victory for equal rights on its broad base. The impartial suffrage plank causes as much enthusiasm in the ranks as did an order to advance to our boys in the field. It is an order demanded by the people and duly authorized by their officers and agents in Convention assembled for the great Union party, to take up an advanced position where they can fight the enemies of our country's prosperity in closer quarters.

MT. VERNON, OHIO.

The Republican State Ticket—Preparations for a Ratification Meeting—Sad Death of Dr. Matthew Thompson.

Special Dispatch to Pittsburgh Commercial.
MT. VERNON, O., June 20, 1867.

The nomination by the Union State Convention of General Hayes, for Governor, and Hon. Samuel Galloway, for Lieutenant Governor, give the Union men of old Knox great satisfaction, and the platform is fully indorsed by all true loyal men. Preparations are being made for a ratification meeting at an early day.

Dr. Matthew Thompson, of this city, was killed yesterday by being thrown from his sulky while returning from a visit to the country. He became entangled in the running gears of the sulky, and was dragged about a quarter of a mile. His head and face were horribly mangled. From his position when found it is surmised that his horse became unmanageable, and that he was first thrown forward on the horse, and then fell under the sulky, his feet catching in the running gears. He was an eminent physician and surgeon, and much beloved in the community.

CANTON, OHIO.

Stark County Enthusiastic for the Ticket—First County to Indorse Manhood Suffrage—Lectures.

Special Dispatch to Pittsburgh Commercial.
CANTON, O., June 20.

Stark County is enthusiastic for the ticket and the platform. As the first county in the State to indorse manhood suffrage by resolution in convention, she claims a conspicuous position on that plank of the platform. Her vote will tell in the coming election.

On Monday evening last E. P. Grant, Esq., repeated at the Court House his lecture entitled "All things eternal," to which Rev. Dr. Dempsey replied last evening at the M. E. Church to a full house. The lectures were able, and excitede considerable interest.

ASHLAND, OHIO.

How the Nomination of Hayes and Galloway is Accepted.

Special Dispatch to Pittsburgh Commercial.
ASHLAND, O., June 20, 1867.

The nominations of the State Convention yesterday are universally approved by the Union men of Ashland county. You may set Ashland county down for Hayes, Galloway and victory. The Boys in Blue of Ashland county will never desert their old leader, General Hayes. The Democrats have very little to say, and their appearance betokens anything but satisfaction. They see the hand-writing on the wall, and the certain triumph of the great principle of impartial suffrage.

SALEM, OHIO.

The Republican Party a Unit for the Ticket.

Special Dispatch to the Pittsburgh Commercial.
SALEM, O., June 20, 1867.

The action of the Republican State Convention is entirely satisfactory to the people of Columbiana county, and the ticket nominated will receive their undivided support. There was a strong feeling in favor of the renomination of our present worthy Governor, but since he declined no man could have been placed before the people who would command a larger vote or receive a more enthusiastic support than Gen. Hayes.

Special Dispatch to Pittsburgh Commercial.
MASSILLON, O., June 20, 1867.

The resolutions which were adopted at the Convention yesterday, are highly satisfactory. They fully embody the principles of the great Union party, and meet with the hearty approval of our citizens. The ticket is a strong one for this section. The two names at the head of the ticket could not well be improved on.

SURRATT'S TRIAL.

TENTH DAY'S PROCEEDINGS.

Attempt to Impeach Sergeant Dye.

Surratt Has "Bloody Work to Do."

To Kill the "Old Scoundrel Lincoln."

Special Dispatch to Pittsburgh Commercial.
WASHINGTON, D. C., June 20, 1867.

The Surratt trial to-day was not remarkable for important revelations. There is, however, no abatement in the interest of the proceedings. The Court House was overflowing with spectators, including a large number of ladies. A witness named Dr. Cleaver testified to seeing Surratt in Washington on the day of the assassination, but the defense sought to ruin his credibility by eliciting the fact that Cleaver had been lately convicted of rape and murder, and pending a motion for a new trial is out on bail. The witness stated that he testified reluctantly, and was indignant that he was summoned on account of conversations which he held in jail with the famous Sanford Conover. The Government have some thirty witnesses yet to examine.

By Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, June 20.—In the trial of Surratt to-day, the defense submitted a motion asking that the witnesses Hobard, Blinn and Dye be recalled for cross-examination, on points which have come to the knowledge of the defense since the other examination closed. The defense had received information which would enable them to show that in April, 1865, when the facts were fresh in his memory, Hobard stated that the parties to whom he referred in his testimony as having got on his train at Essex Junction, got on that train on Friday, the 21st of April, and not on Tuesday, April 18. As to Blinn, the defense proposed to prove that he made a statement before April 27th corresponding with that made yesterday, except as to the date when the men came to the depot at Burlington. They would show he positively fixed the date from the fact of his brother's death, and that his mother was absent Thursday night, and it was Friday morning the prisoner was put on the train. It was the object of the prosecution to show that Surratt was in Montreal on the evening of April 18th. He was at St. Albans on the morning of the 18th, and at Burlington on the night of the 17th on his way to Montreal. As against that, the defense proposed to show the two men described by Blinn were put on the train Friday morning, and not Thursday; that the two men were pursued through Vermont to Canada; that they were pursued and tracked to their residence in Canada, and it is ascertained neither of the men were Surratt. These facts were reported to the department at Washington, and are still in possession of the United States Government. The Government knows neither of the men who stopped in the depot was John H. Surratt.

As to the recall of Sergeant Dye, Mr. Merrick proposed to read a transcript from the docket of Alderman Dorothy, of Philadelphia, showing that Dye was arrested in the early part of 1867 for passing a counterfeit note on the First National Bank of New York.

The Court declined to allow the reading, and overruled the motion of the defense.

Edward E. Smith gave evidence that Surratt, in January or February, 1865, in conversation joked about going to Richmond, but never acknowledged to having been there; he, however, laughed and said if the Yankees knew what he had done they would stretch his neck.

James M. Wright, chief clerk of the Bureau of Military Justice, identified certain papers as having been placed in his custody, among these Jacob Thompson's account with the Bank of Montreal, a draft on the bank, and Booth's bank book.

Robert A. Campbell, teller of the Ontario Bank, Montreal, gave testimony concerning the papers which Wright had identified.

Wm. A. Cleaver, keeper of a livery stable, testified that Surratt, in company with him, said he and Booth had bloody work to do; they were going to kill the "Damned old scoundrel, Lincoln." Surratt at the time pulling a pistol out and laying it on the desk at the stable. Witness saw Surratt on the evening of the 14th of April previous to the assassination; Booth and Surratt transacted their livery business with him.

John Lee, now residing in Mississippi, formerly detective on Colonel Baker's force, testified to seeing a man that he took to be Surratt on Pennsylvania avenue, near Willard's Hotel, on the evening of the 14th of April, 1865; had seen him before; recognized prisoner as Surratt; to the best of witness's knowledge the prisoner at the bar was the man he met; Surratt was walking at an ordinary gait; I was walking fast; also testified to finding, April 15th, 1865, in room 126, Kirkwood House, where Vice President Johnson resided, a coat containing a spur, a book, three pocket handkerchiefs, and a stick of black liquorice; the book was produced and identified; also found between the sheet and matrass of the bed a large bowie knife with a red cover on it, which were shown to President Johnson and Secretary Stanton, and deposited with Judge Holt. Witness was then a member of Colonel Baker's detective force.

Samuel A. Rainey testified to keeping a stable in company with Dr. W. E. Cleaver, in Washington, in 1865; knew Surratt; had seen him in the stables several times.

Eddy Martin, a commercial broker, who went to Richmond, testified—Saw Andrew Atzerott and John H. Surratt at Port Tobacco in January, 1865; observed no communication between them.

Brooks, stabler, testified—Had charge of Howard Livery Stable on G street in 1865; Surratt kept horses there and gave orders that no one but Booth and himself should get horses there; had seen Booth, Atzerott and Surratt ride out together; witness was asked if he had any conversation with Atzerott about Surratt in April, 1865.

Bradley objected to the question, as the conversation related to a note which was not in Court.

Pierpont suggested it would be best to postpone further investigation until the note was produced. Recess until to-morrow morning.

IOWA UNION CONVENTION.

Ticket Nominated—Platform Adopted.

DES MOINES, IOWA, June 20.—The Republican State Convention to-day nominated Samuel Merrill, of McGregor, for Governor; Colonel Scott, of Storey county, for Lieutenant Governor.

Resolutions were passed in favor of an amendment to the State Constitution securing the right of the ballot, protection of the law, and equal justice to all men, irrespective of color, race or religion; approving the military reconstruction act of last Congress; demanding that Congress assemble in July to carry out by additional enactment the true original intent of said acts. The prompt trial and punishment according to law of the chief of the late rebellion, is imperatively demanded for the vindication of the Constitution, law and the proper punishment of the highest crime.

FROM RICHMOND.

Old Citizens on Trial for Perjury.

RICHMOND, June 20.—Mark Downey and Thomas H. White, two well-known citizens were arraigned before the United States Commissioner this morning, charged with perjury in having taken the registration oath yesterday. The United States District Attorney said in the first case the prosecution would be on the ground that the State Constitution adopted by the convention at Alexandria disfranchised all persons who aided the rebellion. This Constitution is not set aside by the reconstruction bill. About nine-tenths of the whites in the State will be disfranchised if the District Attorney is sustained. Both cases were continued until to-morrow. There is great interest manifested by all classes of citizens in the cases.

WOOSTER, OHIO.

Union Men Pleased with Ticket and Platform.

Special Dispatch to Pittsburgh Commercial.
WOOSTER, O., June 20, 1867.

The Republicans of Wayne County are well pleased with the nominations of the State Convention yesterday, and fully indorse and approve the platform adopted.

Preparations for the Reception of the President in Boston.

BOSTON, June 20.—A committee of the City Council will proceed to New York to-morrow to meet the President, and accompany him to Boston. Governor Bullock has ordered out the First, Seventh and Ninth Regular State Infantry, and three battalions of cavalry to escort the President on his arrival Saturday afternoon. The city governments of Roxbury and Boston have also made appropriate arrangements to welcome him. Quarters have been taken at the Tremont House for the Presidential party.

Election of Directors.

MILWAUKEE, June 20.—The annual meeting of the shareholders of the Milwaukee and St. Paul Railroad Company was held to-day. The whole number of shares voting was 100,800. The election of Directors was unanimous. The following were elected: Alex. Mitchell, Walter S. Gurnee, Russell Sage, Fred. P. James, N. A. Cowdrey, Selah Chamberlin, E. B. Wesley, Jno. W. Cory, H. C. Stimson, S. S. Merrill, Isaac Scott, Julius Wadsworth, James G. Garner.

MAXIMILIAN'S FALL.

Surrender of Queretaro.

IMPERIAL SIDE OF THE STORY.

Starvation and Treachery.

The Empire of Maximilian expired, 4 o'clock A. M., at Queretaro, a city one hundred miles northeast of Mexico, and the capital of the prince of that name. Here the Emperor had been besieged by the Liberal forces, under Escobedo, for sixty-nine days. He had his headquarters in which was built by the Spaniards, and with its fortifications covers nearly fifteen acres of ground. It is a place of great strength, and commands the city and road to Mexico. It is so impregnable that any one who gets possession, with a few hundred troops, can levy contributions and create civil war. "The first battalion of the line," Maximilian's best infantry, was stationed in the Convent. Escobedo held the mountain of Correras, just opposite, and his "supreme power" battalion lay in the valley between.

STARVATION IN THE GARRISON.

Determined the Emperor to cut his way out on the night of the 14th, with three thousand infantry and six hundred good cavalry, reach the mountains, form a junction with Olvera, who was supposed to have two or three thousand Imperial troops, and get into Vera Cruz, where he could stand a long siege, have the sea to bring supplies, and take him away when he concluded to leave. Everything was ready. The enemy, unsuspicious, had determined to give up the starving out plan, and attack the garrison in force at sunrise. Corn was scarce with the besiegers, and the besieged had none; but had for some time been living on the flesh of starved horses, mules and dogs. Juarez was pressing Escobedo to bring the siege to a close. Corona taunted him fiercely with want of energy, and the order of assault had been given. Knowing nothing of each other's plans, Maximilian was to assault the Liberals at midnight and escape; they to assault him in the morning.

TREACHERY.

Spoiled the arrangement. Mejia was to defend the city with three thousand citizens, while the Emperor and his force fought their way out. Two hours before he was to start, fifty-four pretended deserters, from the Liberal lines, were brought in, who said Juarez was beseiged in San Luis, by Ortega; and Escobedo was to go at once to his assistance. Mejia asked him to organize his citizen garrison. Maximilian postponed his plan, and about the same hour, Escobedo rode down in person, to countermand the order of assault. He had the city by

THE TREASON OF COL. LOPEZ,

Commander the Convent. Lopez is a Mexican, was high in the confidence of the Emperor, a portly, handsome man, with no appearance of Mexican; but rather the look of an aristocratic Anglo-Saxon. He was one of the last men, in the train of Maximilian, to have been suspected of treason, but just after Escobedo had given the order of attack, he received a letter from Lopez offering, for $800, to give up the Cruz. At 4 o'clock A. M., of the 15th May, Escobedo's troops marched in at one gate, and those of Lopez out at another, as prisoners.

THE DISCOVERY.

With the first streak of day the Emperor awoke and was the first to find that something was wrong. He hastily awoke Prince Salm-Salm, saying, "Come along, quick," and opened his door. Here he met a file of Liberal soldiers, commanded by Col. Rincon Gallardo, to whom Lopez pointed out his late friend and master, saying, "That's he!" and urged Rincon to secure him. Rincon would have liked to capture the Emperor in a fight, but scorned to take him thus. Going up to his prisoner, he pushed him out of the convent into the city street, saying, "You are a citizen—you are no soldier; we don't want you—vamos." He went on foot to Cerro de la Campana, at the other extremity of the city. His Hungarian hussars, and such of his officers as could break through the Liberal guard, followed and collected there.

RESISTANCE.

The Imperial troops, generally dropped their guns and shouted vive la Libertad, as the Liberals filed in, but Miramon rallied a portion of the regiment of the Emperatrix, on a broad street, and gave battle. At the first fire, he was wounded, his men surrendered, and he was made prisoner.

SURRENDER OF MAXIMILIAN.

Meanwhile Maximilian had been joined at the Cerro de la Campana, or Bell Height—a fortified hill commanding the other extremity of the city—by Generals Mejia, Castillo and Avellano, and Prince Salm-Salm and others of his officers, but it was quickly evident that resistance or escape was equally impossible. Four battalions of infantry and nearly the whole of the Liberal cavalry surrounded the hill. A large white flag was accordingly sent down from the Cerro, and the Emperor, with his principal officers, surrendered unconditionally to General Corona. They were allowed to retain their horses, arms and personal property, and later in the day were marched round by the outskirts of the city to the Cruz. The hussars and the remaining forces on the Cerro came down in detachments, and most of them surrendered to Corona's American legion.

AN ATTEMPT TO ESCAPE.

Colonel Campos, a Mexican officer commanding the Emperor's escort, alone endeavored to escape. Mounted on a magnificent grey steed, a six shooter in each hand and $4,000 in his belt, he dashed down the mountain side and tried to break through the Liberal cavalry. Impossible as the attempt was, it seemed for the moment as if it would succeed. His horse stood at nothing, but jumped ditches, barricades and earthworks with equal ease. Baffled and turned at one point, Campos tried another; he shot dead a Liberal Major who attempted to stop him and wounded several other men. Finally he was himself wounded and captured. The same day he was shot by order of Escobedo.

THE RESULTS.

There was soon a rush of dealers in market, bringing provisions to the famine-stricken people; a general plenty and general joy. The surprise was so complete that not a gun was spiked, not an officer escaped. The day after the betrayal Escobedo ordered that all Imperial officers who did not surrender within twenty-four hours would be shot when captured. Mendez was found under the floor of a house and shot. He asked to face his executioners, but was shot in the back as a traitor. The first volley did not kill him. He pointed to his head. A corporal put the muzzle of his gun to it, fired, and he was gone. He was an Indian, and had shot two Liberal Generals while prisoners.

THE AMERICAN LEGION

is forty-six officers, the cavalry escort of Corona, rough fellows; and a terror to their Mexican friends as well as foes. In answer to a complaint against one of them, Aranda said, "my dear sir, I would arrest the whole d—d corps if I could, but we have not men enough in the army to do it." When Miramon gained his victory at Zacatecas the Liberal retreat was covered by the Americans. Miramon said afterwards that he hesitated whether he should follow up his victory or not, but he judged from the accuracy of the firing that the Americans were covering the retreat, and concluded he had better not.

THE PRISONERS WERE HARSHLY TREATED AT FIRST.

They slept on the bare floor, and for a day or two were but poorly supplied with food. The advent of Madame Salm-Salm and her intercession with Escobedo obtained them better accommodation. They were removed to another and more commodious convent—that of La Capuchina—and their friends were allowed to send them wines, provisions and clothing. The adventures of this lady would form a strange chapter of romance. She was twice fired on when passing the lines at the city of Mexico under a flag of truce. She was held prisoner for two days in Guadaloupe by General Diaz for distributing money among the Austrian prisoners at Chapultepec, and finally received a passport, or rather an order, to quit the country for Europe. On this passport she actually traveled to Queretaro and San Luis, during the siege of the former town, attended only by a little Mexican maid servant. It is said that Maximilian, weakened and prostrated as he has been since the surrender by dysentery, wept like a child when he heard of the heroic exertions thus made on his behalf. The Hungarian hussars and the other foreign troops of the late Imperial army, were distributed in various parts of the town as prisoners.

THE MEXICAN RANK AND FILE WERE MUSTERED INTO THE LIBERAL ARMY.

The Emperatriz regiment marched down to the Alameda to be divested of the handsome uniform they latterly have never honored. "Form in line, two deep," "Sit down," "Strip," were the words of command, and in three minutes six hundred naked Mexicans were scorching in the sun. The kepis were given to one Liberal regiment, the jackets to another, and the pants to a third. The crestfallen Emperatriz troops then attired themselves in the ragged, cast-off garments of their future companions. It was all intensely comical. "Swapping lice," a friend called it, with more truth than elegance.

BEFORE THE BETRAYAL.

On the 10th of April, the third anniversary of Maximilian's acceptance of the crown of Mexico, Aguirre, a member of his cabinet, waited on him, with an address as from the citizens of Queretaro. His reply is dignified, and has the air of a firm belief that he was chosen Emperor by the people of Mexico. He says:

"At the moment of the evacuation of our territory by the foreigners, when one of my most sacred tasks, that of watching over the integrity of our country and protecting her threatened independence—was completed, I believed that my further remaining at the head of the nation would be an obstacle. I have called since, in consequence of this doubt, a legal council, composed by my care of men of all parties, and of the most pronounced political colors, to place in their hands, and on their responsibility of a free and frank decision on this question, so delicate and important for my conscience. The opinion of the council being prompt and almost unanimous that it would be a grave shortcoming on my part to abandon, in the actual moment of crisis, the post to which the nation had called me, I consequently consented to dedicate myself a second time to the arduous task, which obstacles innumerable render more difficult every day, but, at the same time, yielding to my most cherished and innermost impulses, before leaving Orizaba to return to the capital I convoked the nation to a free and Constitutional Congress, intending to submit with readiness to the final decision of my fellow-citizens, and proposing to lay before them, also, all the acts, documents and accounts of my government, which, with a clean conscience, I could submit to their judgment and that of the entire world. You, sirs, know why that Congress was never freely and fully organized according to my intentions, because our antagonists were not like us, willing to submit to the national will. The truth is, that acts already become historical render it difficult for them to pass the judgment before a free and impartial Congress. Our duties and our task are now in consequence of this more clear. We have to defend our national independence as well as our liberty and to restore to the nation that free action and dignity which have so long been prostrated under the absolute terrorism exerted by the cohorts of social revolution. On the the 16th September, 186[illegible], I said to you 'That every drop of my blood is now Mexican; and God should permit new perils to menace our dear country, you should see me fight in your ranks for her independence and her integrity.' Those who surround me in the difficulties and perils of to-day in Queretaro see that I have fulfilled my promise. The following year, on the same day, of memorable record, I said, 'That without blood, without pain, no human triumph, no political reformation no lasting progress had ever been accomplished; adding, also, that I was still firm in the struggle which the vote of the nation had called me to carry on, and notwithstanding all the difficulties I would not falter in my duties, since it was not in the moment of danger that a true Hapsburg would abandon his post.' And here I am, struggling cheerfully by your side. Let us continue to advance with determination on the road of our rights, and God will recompense our efforts, giving us as our reward the peace and liberty of our country. Let our rallying cry always and on all occasions be the immaculate motto, 'Viva la Independencia.'
"APRIL 10, 1867."

He was to have been tried by court martial, with Miramon and Mejia, and he requested the Prussian Minister in Mexico, Don Palecio, and Martinez de la Tarre to act as his defenders.

MEXICO.

Maximilian's Trial Again Postponed.

Santa Anna Captured by Liberals.

He is Sentenced to be Hanged.

NEW YORK, June 20.—The Herald's San Luis Potosi special says: Maximilian's trial was to have been resumed to-morrow, but his counsel not having arrived from the Capital, the case will again be postponed. General Miramon's relations, who are in this city, have secured counsel in his behalf. The probabilities grow greater that the trial will be postponed on one pretext and another, till after the fall of Mexico City and Vera Cruz, and till after the arrival of the American Minister. Meanwhile, to allay the popular excitement and satisfy the army, which has grown clamorous for Maximilian's blood, circumstantial accounts are being constantly circulated. Bogus proclamations, purporting to be signed by him, are issued here in the very seat of government and passed off as genuine, and every device is resorted to in order to bring the fallen Emperor in contempt. The growing insubordination of the military chieftains to the Central Government causes uneasiness here. Deserters are forming themselves into bands of robbers, which render the roads around San Luis Potosi very unsafe.

Up to the date of June 3d, the siege of the Capital still progressed. Gen. Diaz was aiming at reducing the Capital in the same manner as Queretaro had been taken. Nearly all of Escobedo's army, and the whole of Corona's, with the exception of 3,000 cavalry, sent to Jalisco to bring Gen. Lapado to terms, have reinforced General Diaz, who could any day carry the Capital by assault if he chose.

The Times says a report was received in Havana just as the steamer Eagle left, that Santa Anna landed at Vera Cruz on the 4th, but was compelled to re-embark. He then went to Sissal, where the Liberals captured him. He was subjected to a military trial, and sentenced to be hanged on the 8th.

THE PHILADELPHIA CASUALTY.

The Burning of the American Theater—Eleven Firemen Killed and Thirty Wounded.

PHILADELPHIA, June 20.—The fire at the American Theater, it is supposed, originated in the stable on Samson street, occupied by Mr. Fox, and situated immediately under the dressing rooms. The total loss by the fire is estimated at one hundred thousand dollars, on which there is an insurance of only thirty-five thousand. The actors and danseuses escaped in their stage dresses, and lost everything they had in the world.

The front wall of the theater fell about twenty minutes to eleven o'clock, and the firemen complain that to the inefficiency of the police is the loss of life due. The following list of casualties are reported:

Killed—James Dotty, Hibernia engine; a member of the Franklin engine, name unknown, head mashed; John Lutz, Hibernia engine; a citizen dressed in Scotch cap and striped pantaloons; Caleb Beetz, Washington engine; John Earnest, Franklin engine; a member of the Columbia hose, head mashed in, and could not be recognized by the members of his company; a young man dressed in citizen's clothes, aged about twenty years.

Wounded—Henry Scriber, Washington engine; Wm. Mitchell, Washington engine, severely injured; Amos Kistone, Franklin engine, seriously; John Beck, Moyamensing Hose, cut on the head; Samuel Jaggers, Friendship engine, leg broken above the knee; Amos Jones, Lafayette Hose, seriously injured, and not expected to recover. John Kelly, Franklin engine, leg broken and severely injured about the back; Matthew Fenery, aged seventeen years, severely injured; John Ellis, Washington engine, dangerously hurt; Edward Regance, engine, dangerously hurt; Joseph Franklin, Shiffler Hose, severely injured; a member of the Franklin engine, with his ankle cut; Wm. Butler, Washington engine, badly injured; Wm. Walters, leg broken and otherwise injured. George Ashman, of the Good Will, had his collar bone broken by some one on the roof of the building No. 132 South Eighth street throwing a trap door off. Mr. Ashman was on a ladder, and, on being struck, was precipitated to the sidewalk. He was removed to his home. The sad affair has cast quite a gloom over the city.

PHILADELPHIA, June 20.—There have been thirteen deaths from injuries received at the burning of the American Varieties Theatre last evening. About thirty persons were wounded. The following is a partial list of the sufferers: Killed: James Daily, John Lutz, Campbell Deets, John W. Earnest, Henry Scribner. Wounded—Wm. Nutchell, Amos Kesline, John Breck, Samuel Juggles, Amos Jones, not expected to recover; John Kelly, Matthew Ferry, John Ellis, Edwin Regan, Joseph Franklin, Wm. Butler, Wm. Walters, George Ashman.

CITY MATTERS.

HIGH SCHOOL COMMENCEMENT

Interesting Exercises at Masonic Hall—Award of Diplomas.

The Commencement Exercises of the Pittsburgh Central High School were held last evening in Masonic Hall. The attendance was very large, and the exercises excellent. The stage was occupied by the principal and teachers of the school, and the members of the graduating class. The entertainment was opened with prayer.

The first exercise was an oration on "Philosophy," by George H. Evans. The oration was well composed, but the speaker was rather too hurried in its delivery.

An essay on "Social Follies" was then ready by Miss Bertha Kuhn. She referred to the many social follies, of a trifling character, which the people of the present age are dragging themselves into, and said that the only way to get rid of them was to adhere to moral sense and true Christianity. The production was elegantly written and was well read.

An oration on "Hidden Truths" was then delivered by Joseph H. Buffum. His discussion of the subject evinced much thought and judgment, and was well delivered. He said that many things but of recent invention, originated in ages past. The power of the electric telegraph and steam engine were as old as the hills. A great many of our most wonderful modern inventions are but the combination of similar inventions of centuries ago.

Next was an essay on "The March of Intellect," by Miss Maggie J. McKelvy. She reviewed the days when intellect and education were looked upon with scorn, their rapid progress since then, and their prosperity at the present time. The essay was well composed, and well read.

An oration was then delivered by Alexander McCandless, on the subject now most agitating the public mind, "Who should have the Elective Franchise?" The subject was ably handled, and elicited considerable applause. He argued that the negro who was compelled to pay taxes should have the right to ballot. He saved in helping the nation during its recent struggle, and had always shown himself to be true to our country's flag. Some opposed giving the negroes the right of ballot, because, as a general thing, they were ignorant. It was the people of the country who made him ignorant, and they should be the first to make him intelligent by giving him the right of ballot. As regards allowing females the right of elective franchise, the speaker was opposed to it. The principal objection to it was that it would naturally cause domestic troubles, and to a certain degree disturb the happiness between man and wife.

A well written essay on "The Objects of Life and Education," was next read by Miss Fannie V. Siebert. It was an elegant production and elicited the cordial applause of the audience.

An essay was then read by Miss Maggie H. Sleeth, entitled "The Right will Prevail." She referred to the many disappointments and defeats that are met with in life, but said there was comfort in the assurance . . . that if in the right, all would . . . and finally prosper. The essay was well written and very interesting.

An oration on the subject, "The Past and Future of the South," was then delivered by Robert McClelland. The production was an excellent one, and was exceedingly well delivered. The speaker referred to the selfish, overruling spirit and demoralized condition of the South prior to the rebellion, and the bright prospects which are in store for it now.

Mr. McClelland then delivered the Valedictory Address, which was a beautiful and very affecting one. He related the present condition of the High School and its efficient management, returned thanks to their kind teachers, and bid them an affectionate farewell.

Professor Philotus Dean, Principal of the High School, then presented the graduating class, six in number, whose names are George H. Evans, Joseph H. Buffum, Alexander McCandless, Robert McClelland, Miss Bertha Kuhn and Miss Maggie H. Sleeth, with diplomas, awarded by the Central Board of Education, and accompanied them by very appropriate and well timed remarks.

The exercises were interspersed with excellent music by the orchestra, under the leadership of Prof. J. E. Hartel. The audience was then dismissed, all well pleased with the entertainment.

The Daily Commercial

FRIDAY, JUNE 21, 1867.

THE COMMERCIAL is the largest daily paper in the State, and gives daily one-fourth more reading than any other paper in Pittsburgh. It is the only Pittsburgh paper that uses the telegraph liberally, gives full market reports, and all the news of the day.

The following were the receipts for advertising by the leading daily papers in Pittsburgh, for the two months ending March 1, 1867, at which date the tax law ceased:

COMMERCIAL	$13,168 00

Chronicle	12,125 00
Dispatch	12,051 79
Post	7,865 15

The receipts by the same papers from the same source, for the fourteen months ending March 1, 1867, were as follows:

Post	33,042

THE Republicans in their conventions and local meetings are taking distinct ground in favor of the Free Railroad Law, and we take it that as a matter of course the State Convention next week will do the same thing. The Democratic party, not being for it, kept silence. They might just as well have taken the position of hostility at once, for that is what silence means.

IF Mr. GREELEY wants to know what the Republicans in Pennsylvania think of his going bail for JEFF. DAVIS, let him read the resolutions adopted by the Westmoreland County Convention. If the Republican papers—which Mr. GREELEY styles "the insects"—have spoken plainly in condemning the proceeding, it is apparent they have but reflected the sentiment entertained by the great body of the Republicans. The truth is "the insects" are very numerous.

THE resignation of the District Commanders would be but the natural consequence of the interference of the President. But we sincerely hope not one of them will resign, but that all of them will bear this new spasm of rebellion for the brief period it will be necessary. General SHERIDAN, in particular, has much reason for indulging in resentment, but there are stronger ones why he should keep cool and not think of throwing up his hand. The country is at his back and he can rely on being sustained every time he cuts off a rebel head—no matter in what disguise it may be found.

ALTHOUGH the regret for the loss of Gen. SICKLES from the Department of the Carolinas would be general, yet every one can readily perceive why an officer like him should desire to be relieved. The reason for Gen. SICKLES's request is not given, but it cannot be doubted what it is—the antagonism engendered by the course of the President, but for whom the work of reconstruction would go forward prosperously to the end. Considering how well Gen. SICKLES has done, more especially the danger of having a mere tool of the Executive in his place, it is greatly to be hoped he will not be relieved.

THE visit by the Royal Heads of Europe to Paris does not appear to have been a perfect love-feast. They may have got on well enough with the Emperor, but not so with the people. To say nothing about the little affair whereby the Czar came near being shot on the spot, he was insulted to such a degree by cries of Vive la Pologne, that he openly showed resentment. This occurred at the Hotel Clany and Palais de Justice, and it is said the bar and judges feel so mortified that they will express their regrets in an address. The King of Prussia fared no better, for he was openly styled by the gamins of Paris "Baron Brisee," a nick name likely to stick. It was the name of a great-little man who won renown by writing extensively on cookery.

THE Boston Advertiser thinks the newspaper reports on the meat question in Chicago, Cincinnati and Pittsburgh may be "somewhat exaggerated." Not a whit—so far as our city is concerned; in fact, the picture, bad as it is, has been considerably toned down, and we presume such has been the case in the other cities named. In view of the revealed state of things, our Boston contemporary remarks:

"Cincinnati has taken energetic action to remedy the nuisance, and if other cities do not follow her example it will not be for want of a warning on the part of the press. We commiserate the citizens of those places, and trust that the reform in their markets may speedily meet their full expectations."

Whether Pittsburgh will follow the excellent example set by Cincinnati, is yet to be ascertained. We are unwilling, as yet, to think our authorities will long remain indifferent to their duty and the welfare of the community for which they are supposed to have in some sort a jealous care. We hope they will remember the dog days are at hand.

IN ANOTHER LIGHT.

The Reconstruction Law itself shows that the country is not in its natural and healthy condition. The necessity for such a law, and also its provisions, in detail, demonstrate this. An argument, therefore, designed to illustrate the relations between the military and civil departments of the government, may be sound and forcible, when applied to the normal condition of affairs, and seriously unsound and dangerous, if applied to the country when in a state of disorder or insurrection. This we conceive to be the character of the line of argument that runs through the Attorney General's opinion, in reference to the authority and functions of the Military District Commanders.

It is undoubtedly true, that the main design of military organization and force is to preserve and support the civil administration of government, and not to supercede or annul it. This is what the military power in the Southern States is now doing, as to the civil administration of the General Government. And it only interferes with local civil government, when this is, as a sequence of the rebellion, incompatible with, or antagonistic to the civil administration of the United States Government over its entire domain. And it is clearly as much the prerogative and duty of the Union Government to exercise its military power, if necessary, in suppressing opposition from local civil authorities, as it would be if that opposition to its laws were raised by military force.

The purpose of the special legislation of Congress, under which the military commanders are acting, is to restore order and civil authority in the Southern States, as constituent portions of the United States. For reaching this design, a process of procedure is prescribed and in part it is left to the discretion of commanders. But the removal of whatever obstruction they may meet with in furthering the grand purpose of the law is undoubtedly embraced in their sphere of duty. And we can imagine no obstructions more proper to exercise this prerogative upon than those local functionaries, of whatever kind and by whomsoever placed in office, who employ their official influence and power for impeding the work of Reconstruction and for frustrating the laws of Congress in relation to it. The removal of such officials by General SHERIDAN in Louisiana, and the necessary appointment of others in their place, come, therefore, fairly within the line of his duty. The morbid political condition, that rendered the Reconstruction Law and his appointment under it necessary, rendered his action both necessary and proper.

The mode in which the officials were appointed is not an essential consideration in this view of the case. No matter by whom or how they were placed in office. It is their action, as an obstacle to the restoration of order in the relation of the States with the Union, that furnishes the cause of their removal. Had they been appointed by the Commanders themselves, subsequent action adverse to the reconstruction of the Government, would have been sufficient ground for their removal. And the President has no occasion, therefore, to construe their removal—that of Governor WELLS, for example—as infringing on his dignity or prerogative. A mistake being made, its correction, and not a persistence in it, is the proper thing to be done.

SANTA ANNA TURNS UP.

As any revulsion in Mexico seems to be incomplete without SANTA ANNA, the newspapers have made him appear at Tampico, with the accompaniment of the inevitable Proclamation, and the almost equally inevitable adhesion of the city to his standard. But, at the same time, SANTA ANNA's nephew and namesake publishes in New York a remarkable statement, in reference to him, expressing the belief that the old General is in this country, in a state of concealment, probably with his own consent, but in a feeble condition of mind and the dupe of designing men, who are expecting to derive large gains from the General's estates in Mexico.

The statement of the nephew is that his uncle after residing in Elizabeth, New Jersey, and the city of New York, went nearly a year ago to Staten Island and resided in the house of J. NAPHEGYI, a Hungarian, who with a few other persons had gained an ascendancy over him, by persuading him that they were preparing a scheme for an expedition into Mexico with him at the head of it. Hearing that his uncle was rich, the nephew called to see him, but was refused by those about the house. This he did several times in March and May last. But he learned that SANTA ANNA had, last November, been induced to sign a mortgage for $750,000 on his estates in Mexico and St. Thomas. On this mortgage, bonds were to be issued and sold, to raise money for the expedition. The first instalment of interest falls due on the 1st of July, and it is supposed that in default of payment, the mortgage is to be foreclosed, and the old General stripped of his large estates for the benefit of the intriguers. As late as the 21st of May, the nephew calling to see the General was denied admission to him, but received a note from him, or purporting to come from him, as follows:

"DEAR ANTONIO: I am sickly just now, and it is impossible for me to see you. I wish to see you, too, but it shall be Wednesday after to-morrow at 11 A. M. Nobody will put an obstacle, and with this note you shall present yourself. Your uncle that loves you. ANTONIO."

Believing this to be fictitious, he called several times, but failed to see the General, various pretexts being assigned. On the fourth of this month he called and found that NAPHEGYI had removed, and the General, it was said, had gone two weeks before to Havana. Again, he called on the tenth and was told that his uncle was in, but going to his room he did not find him.

Young SANTA ANNA conjectures that his uncle, enfeebled by age, is the dupe of others, that he is still in this country, that the bonds are playing a part in the affair; and he assures the public that the property is in such a condition that it cannot be taken for the bonds. A short time will shed light on the curious story.

A New York letter, dated the 19th inst., indulges in the following speculation and statements:

It leaks out to-day that old Santa Anna actually left Staten Island some five weeks ago, intending to land at Tampico and unfurl the flag of the Republic on his own account in opposition to Juarez. The fact that some such expedition was on foot was stated in this correspondence some six weeks since, and there are many parties between Wall street and Staten Island, unconnected with newspapers, who had knowledge of the fact. I may also add, that since the ex-Dictator himself sailed, there is reason to believe another vessel has followed him with reinforcements. Parties in the Juarez interest here, however, have no faith in his ability to maintain himself, and expect to hear, ere long, if he has really effected a landing at Tampico, he has been cut up; or that, following the precedent in the Maximilian case, he will be held until some of his friends come forward to ransom him.

Since the above was written, a report has reached us that SANTA ANNA landed first at Vera Cruz, but on being compelled re-embark, again landed at Sissal, where being captured by the Liberalists, was tried and condemned to be shot on the 8th inst. Further news on this point will be awaited with deep interest.

SYMPATHETIC BY TURNS.

It is decidedly interesting to behold how the virtuous sympathy and indignation of some of the Democratic press are aroused about the doings of the militia in Tennessee. Without expressing an opinion of the truth or falsity of their statements, or of the right or wrong of the case, we say it is "interesting" to discover that the latent sympathy of the Democratic press has at last become active and visible, and even conspicuous and clamorous. It must have been an error, to say, as was often said during the rebellion, that the Democrats were lacking in sympathy, because they never expressed any concern, much less any horror, at the atrocities committed on Union people in Tennessee. They had sympathy, but it did not run in the direction of Union sufferers. The sickening accounts of wrongs and miseries, inflicted on the Union loving people of East Tennessee by their barbarous oppressors, in the interest of the rebellion, did not penetrate the inner dark chamber where their sympathy was garnered. But stories of the doings of the militia, under the laws of the State, excite attention, and throw them into spasms of sympathetic agony.

The condition of society in some parts of Tennessee is no doubt bad enough. That it is made worse than it would otherwise be, by the legislation of the State and by the authorized means of maintaining order, we have no reason to believe. And we do not believe that it is half as bad as it was during the real "reign of terror" there, when the Union people were under the heel of the Confederacy. The return of the defeated rebels to their homes, raging with hatred of the Government and of the Union party in the ascendent in their own State, has no doubt been followed by many angry collisions in neighborhoods, and probably by acts of violence and revenge. But the complaints of rebels, and the furious sympathy of Northern Democrats, and the appeals of the rebels of Tennessee to ANDREW JOHNSON against Governor BROWNLOW, all combined, fail to prove to us that the Tennessee laws and administration are any too strict, or that they set heavily upon any but criminal and turbulent people.

Like complaints, like sympathy and like appeals have been made, with reference to our military commanders in other parts of the South, where they have to do with the same seditious and turbulent kinds of people. In these cases the commanders are known to have acted wisely and prudently and justly. But the mere fact that they, from a sense of duty, and in obedience to the laws of Congress, are obliged to thwart the wishes and measures of rebel politicians, raises against them the complaints of those rebels, the abuse of the Democratic press, and appeals to ANDREW JOHNSON the President. The opposition to Union rule in Tennessee is probably of the same character, mere rebel squirming under wholesome government.

But whether this be so or not, the assumption of an extraordinary humanity, the virtuous indignation, the oniony tears of the Democracy on the occasion, after years of stolid indifference to the sufferings of Union people in the South, exhibit a sight that is interesting, decidedly interesting. It shows a command of the "feelinks" that is marvelous, to be able to repress and display them at pleasure. This philosophy must be a cross of the old Stoic with the tearful NIOBE.

A STEAMBOAT has arrived at St. Paul from Green Bay direct in nine days, through the Fox river. She is one hundred and thirty-three feet long, thirty feet wide, and of three hundred tons burden, with a capacity of seven thousand bushels of wheat in her hold. The route for Green Bay is through the Lower Fox, Lake Winnebago and the Upper Fox to Portage City, and then through the Wisconsin to Prairie du Chien.

A WRITER describing the minerals in the Paris Exhibition says: Illinois is also excellently represented. The collection is creditable to the State and the railroad company—both of whom have co-operated in getting it together. The Galena mines are illustrated by various cubes of galena, and the coal district by various and remarkable specimens of black diamonds. Pennsylvania has not thought it necessary to make an effort. Indeed, it is a little singular that the best mineral selections are those which come from the greatest distances. The States that were near to the coast have dawdled and talked and done nothing. Pennsylvania sends a few fine specimens of iron and coal, but nothing that indicates the extraordinary wealth of the State.

GENERAL INTELLIGENCE.

The Nicholson pavement is being put down in different parts of Cincinnati and in other cities. Though costing the greatest outlay, it is believed experience has proved it the best. The Turf newspaper speaks of the advantage it offers to the feet of horses as a very important consideration.

Dr. Pollion, of France, says that a cold in the head can be cured by inhaling hartshorn. The inhalation by the nose should be seven or eight times in five minutes.

In Springfield a boy six years old, son of an Irishwoman, stole $95 from his mother and disposed of it among his playmates. To punish him for the theft, his mother tied him hand and foot to a post, and kept him stark naked out of doors in sun and storm every day for a week. Not content with such brutal treatment she kept him for a fortnight longer tied in a similar way to a bed-post in the house. The boy will be quite sure to do worse next time.

A letter from Rome says that among the notabilities now in that city is a ritualist clergyman of the Anglican Church who appears at all the Roman Catholic ceremonies, attired in the full dress of a pilgrim or hermit, and assists most devoutly all the religious functions of the season.

It is expected that one mile of the railroad up Mount Washington will be completed about the middle of July, and that then cars will run that distance to a place called "Waumbeck Junction," two miles from the top. The average grade of the road is thirteen hundred feet to the mile.

The Chicago Times prints the following account of a recent occurrence in St. Louis: A crowd had gathered on a corner, and an excited individual, panting with heat, rushed up to the scene, exclaiming, "What's the matter?" "Only a man killed," was the reply. "Oh! is that all? I thought it was a dog fight."

In the twelve champagne cases which are now on trial at New York, for alleged undervaluation by the importers, the government would have lost $1,000,000 had the frauds been successful. Similar cases have lately been decided in favor of the government at Boston and San Francisco.

The Irish newspapers state that the tide of emigration from Ireland continues, and as it does not show any signs of diminution, the probability is that in the course of a very few years the population will be reduced sufficiently to satisfy those who think that the number of inhabitants is too great at present in comparison with the resources of the country.

Mackerel, owing to the success of the fisheries, are very cheap in New England. Last week they were selling at Newburyport, Mass., at but two cents a piece.

In New York $20,000 have been voted to celebrate the Fourth of July. More than half of it will go into the pockets of the "suckers."

The Fremont (Ohio) Journal says the cherries and peaches in that vicinity promise a splendid crop. The Journal says: The cherry trees are loaded with fruit, and there will be a heavy crop of peaches, unless some "killing frost" comes hereafter.

A St. Louis dispatch says Mike McCool will train in that city preparatory to his fight with Jones, notwithstanding the announcement to the contrary. It is expected that in a few days he will get down to his work and place himself in condition as soon as possible. Dublin Tricks is his trainer; the same one who attended him before his match with Davis.

The raft Nonpareil was spoken on the 15th about 230 miles off Sanky Hook by the Prussian bark Pidan. The raft had then been eight days out, and had made only one-fifteenth of her passage. At that rate it will take her something like four months to reach Southampton, if her brave crew don't bring up in "Davy's Locker," before the expiration of that period of time.

As proof of the benefits of co-operation, it is stated that in Paris clerks and others who have permanent employment and fixed salaries, organize themselves into a society. They purchase goods wholesale, and retail them at cost price to the members of their associations, the difference between the wholesale and retail prices being about thirty per cent. They may borrow money even at ten per cent. on the mortgage of their salaries. This would leave them a profit of twenty per cent.

The rush of travel toward Europe appears to be slacking up somewhat, a fact less agreeable, perhaps, to the steamer companies than to travelers, who are apt to think their own comfort promoted just in proportion as the crowd decreases.

PERSONAL.

—Gen. Garibaldi, it is stated, "has commenced a three-volume novel with priests for its principal characters and Rome for the scene of action. He is also engaged on a history of his public life."

—Mrs. Woodman of Swanzey, 93 years old, rode five miles and back a few days ago to attend the funeral of Mrs. Lydia Buffington, of Somerset, who was nearly 95 when she died.

—The Emperor of Russia seems to have made the most of his time in Paris. He telegraphed, in advance, for a private box at the well known theater, Varieties, of the Boulevard Montmatre and went to see the buffoonery of that play house on the very evening of his arrival in Paris. On Sunday, like a good Greek, he went to church in the morning, in the Russian Church; in the afternoon, like a bad Frenchman, he regaled himself at the races, in company with the French Emperor.

—The Springfield Republican is severe on Thackeray. It says: Thackeray was by nature a singularly coarse man—coarse in thought, and coarse in expression, and those who were intimate with him often wondered how well he simulated refinement in his books. It adds, without further specification, that "his first request on landing in this country, on his first visit, was about the last one that a well-bred gentleman would have ventured to remark." It winds up with a relation of Thackeray's rudeness to a daughter of James Petigru, of South Carolina, and the lady's spirited reply. This is presenting the great satirist in an entirely new aspect.

—Delmonico, who addresses the palate of New York, returns an income of $206,504; Dr. Bushnell, who addresses the intellect of the country, returns an income of $400.

—Forney has heard Spurgeon preach, and writes home to his "two papers, both daily," that he "would rather be Charles H. Spurgeon, surrounded with the love of the rescued souls of the working people of his parish, than the Lord-Bishop of a thousand churches of England." Mr. F. is neither.

—Whenever a President of the United States visits Boston, it is said to have been the invariable custom of Harvard College to confer an honorary degree upon him. President Johnson's visit this month will, therefore, probably procure him the degree of LL.D.

—John Williams, son of Rev. Eleazer Williams, the Dauphin or lost Bourbon Prince, is captain of a steamboat on Lake Winnebago.

—Gen. Joseph E. Johnston has been appointed President of the Charleston, Memphis and Topeka Railway, via Atlanta and Decatur.

—Ex-Governor Letcher, of Virginia, says that in the early days of secession many persons, since in high civil and military positions in the North, wrote encouraging letters to the secession leaders. The documentary proof of such aid and comfort was contained in the correspondence addressed to the Governor, which he had prepared for publication, but which was totally destroyed when Gen. Hunter burned his house in 1864.

—General Wright, late superintendent of the Union Pacific railroad, Kansas division, started from Salina on Saturday, June 8, for Pond Creek, nearly 200 miles west from Fort Harker, with a party of one hundred men, and a escort of one company of cavalry, to survey a route for a railroad to New Mexico; thence he will strike across to Santiago, on the coast of California. The party expect to be in the field about two years. Several young men of high promise are in the party: a son of Senator Drake, of Missouri; a son of Mr. Brewster, Attorney General of Pennsylvania, and others.

—Jefferson Davis was born in Tod county, Kentucky, and was sixty years old on the 3d day of June.

—An English habit of which the French Empress complains, is that vulgar curiosity which, under the guise of respect, almost mobs her Majesty when she visits the English department. Two lines are formed, and she is forced to pass through this avenue of bowing and curious flesh and blood. The illustrious lady comes to see like others, and not to be seen.

—The Boston Transcript says: "It is well settled in the minds of many persons in this vicinity who the big villain is that planned the ruin of old Jacob Barker, of New Orleans, and concocted the scheme for robbing the Sub-Treasury of that city of over one million dollars." That is sufficiently mysterious, truly.

A cow worth having is possessed by a farmer of Westfield, Massachusetts. She is said to be of the Ayrshire and Durham breeds, weighs 1,600 pounds, and gives on an average over 60 pounds of milk per day. Her greatest yield this season was 65¾ pounds, and the day following she gave 64 pounds. From November 1, 1865, to November 1, 1866, besides a supply of milk, cream and butter for family use, the owner sold $150 worth of milk from this single cow.

GRAIN FROM CALIFORNIA.—California expects to compete hereafter with the Eastern States in supplying the grain market of Europe. The Alta Californian says: "This year the greatest want has been sufficient shipping to carry away the surplus crop to foreign markets. Hereafter we shall not be troubled on that account, as the shippers and grain-dealers of the Eastern States and Europe now understand that we have a large trade upon which they can rely. With a lively competition in shipping, San Francisco, even by way of Cape Horn, can always reach the markets of Europe with her grain a little cheaper than Chicago, so that our farmers will have the advantage of those of Illinois, Michigan, Wisconsin and Iowa in price, and double or treble the advantage in production to the acre planted."

Registration in Richmond.

The first day of the registration in Richmond was greeted with very different emotions by two classes of its citizens. For our knowledge of those emotions we are indebted to the representations made in papers entirely devoted to the interests, and swayed by the prejudices, of one of them. The Enquirer says: "Our people are alarmed, and they do well to be alarmed." It adds that, "with all our efforts at counteraction, the agitators in our midst and the political emissaries from outside have organized the blacks against the whites, with an approach to unanimity." This, the Enquirer says, is especially the case in cities and towns, but "the malign influence is extending to the country" to such a degree that the intolerance among the negroes "is almost as great as in New England."

It appears that the efforts to get the negro vote has been made as vigorously by the Enquirer and its party, as by the "conspirators" and "emissaries." Their regret is that they failed and others succeeded. And now the whites, of the old Virginian style, are frantically exhorted to register, if he would be "true to Virginia, and true to the skin he wears." "If there is a white man in Virginia who neglects this, he is false to his skin." This is truly a weighty consideration, but we presume the darkey makes use of the same, as an argument on his side too.

The editor becomes more tranquil and more hopeful when he goes among realities than when startled with the operations of his fancy. At the polls, he sees the darkies chatting, gesticulating, discussing, all anxious to register. The officers, he is free to admit, "endeavored to discharge their duty justly and impartially." And he is evidently gratified with the first day's work, in one ward of the city, which gave the names of 187 whites and 144 blacks. How many of the former will vote with the "conspirators" and emissaries is not stated, so that the registration affords no criterion for judging of the strength of parties.

Petroleum as Fuel.

Mr. A. C. Stimers, Naval Engineer, writes to the New York Times in response to the inquiry regarding the "original source of the steam that is taken from the boiler and passed into the retort that generates the vapors that make the heat that raises the steam in the boiler."

The introduction of superheated steam into the retort where the air is vaporized, he writes, is not essential to the making a fire and getting up steam, but it is to burning said vapor with the completeness of combustion necessary for it to compete with coal as a steam fuel. In burning the vapors of petroleum it is necessary that every particle of the vapors shall come into close contact with a corresponding particle of atmospheric air; but air and the vapors of the oils appear to have the same repellant qualities as oil and water, and do not mix enough to prevent the formation of a thick black smoke, and the heat developed is comparatively very small. All who have attempted the use of petroleum for a steam fuel, adds Mr. S., appear to have early learned the great advantage of introducing superheated steam to the vapors. When this is done the air mixes readily with the compound, and a more complete combustion is effected. Although steam could be raised in a boiler from burning the oil vapor only, yet it is done much more quickly and pleasantly if a supply of steam can be had.

WHEN the military bill passed Congress the Republican press in the non-reconstructed States numbered fifteen small journals, only four of which were dailies. There are now thirty-six, of which fourteen are dailies, several are tri-weeklies, and the remainder published weekly. All of them have greatly improved in tone and vigor, and a number are quite able.

GEORGE MUIR,

Of Armstrong's Coal Works, Penn Township, Allegheny county, Pa., speaks as follows of the Rev. E. A. Wilson's Great Remedy for Consumption: I was reduced so low with Consumption that I was unable to leave my bed, and my physicians informed me that they could do nothing more for me, my case being utterly hopeless, that I had not certainly over a month to live. At this stage I was induced to try the Rev. E. A. Wilson's remedy, and to-day I am well as any man in the world. If there are any who doubt this statement, they can call and see me (as per above address) and I will give them all the particulars of my extraordinary recovery.

NEW ADVERTISEMENTS.

THE UNION PACIFIC RAIL ROAD CO.

Are now constructing a Railroad from

OMAHA, NEBRASKA,

Westward towards the Pacific Ocean, making with its connections an unbroken line

ACROSS THE CONTINENT.

The Company now offer a limited amount of their

FIRST MORTGAGE BONDS,

Having thirty years to run, and bearing annual interest, payable on the first day of January and July, in the city of New York, at the rate of

SIX PER CENT. IN GOLD,

AT

Ninety Cents on the Dollar.

This road was completed from Omaha 305 miles, west on the 1st of January, 1867, and is fully equipped, and trains are regularly running over it. The Company has now on hand sufficient Iron, Ties, etc., to finish the remaining portion to the eastern base of the Rocky Mountains, 212 miles, which is under contract to be done September 1st of this year, and it is expected that the entire road will be in running order from Omaha to its western connection with the Central Pacific, now being rapidly built eastward from Sacramento, Cal., during 1870.

Means of the Company.

Estimating the distance to be built by the Union Pacific to be 1,565 miles, the United States Government issues its Six per cent. Thirty-year Bonds to the Company as the road is finished at the average rate of about $28,250 per mile, amounting to $44,208,000.

The Company is also permitted to issue its own First Mortgage Bonds to an equal amount, and at the same time, which by special Act of Congress are made a First Mortgage on the entire line, the bonds of the United States, being subordinate to them.

The Government makes a donation of 12,800 acres of land to the mile, amounting to 20,032,000 estimated to be worth $30,000,000, making the total resources, exclusive of the capital, $118,416,000; but the full value of the lands cannot now be realized.

The authorized Capital Stock of the Company is one hundred million dollars, of which five millions have already been paid in, and of which it is not supposed that more than twenty-five millions at most will be required.

The cost of the road is estimated by competent engineers to be about one hundred million dollars, exclusive of equipment.

Prospects for Business.

The railroad connection between Omaha and the East is now complete, and the earnings of the Union Pacific on the sections already finished for the month of May were $261,782. These sectional earnings as the road progresses will much more than pay the interest on the Company's bonds, and the through business over the only line of railroad between the Atlantic and Pacific must be immense.

Value and Security of the Bonds.

The Company respectfully submit, that the above statement of facts fully demonstrates the security of their Bonds, and as additional proof they would suggest that the Bonds now offered are less than ten million dollars on 517 miles of road, on which over twenty million dollars have already been expended; —on 330 miles of this road the cars are now running, and the remaining 187 miles are nearly completed.

At the present rate of premium on gold these Bonds pay an annual interest on the present cost of and it is believed that on the completion of the road, like the Government Bonds, they will go above par. The Company intend to sell but a limited amount at the present low rate and retain the right to advance the price at their option.

ONE LITTLE CURL.

BY CALEB DUNN.

have a little curl of hair,
As golden as the sunniest ray!
No treasure with it can compare—
Its beauty cannot pass away.

Close to my lips I press the prize,
It may be weakness so to do,
But something writing in my eyes
Is the excuse I offer you.

This little curl of golden hair
Speaks to my heart of one who died—
A blue-eyed boy, as sweet and fair
As e'er invoked a father's pride.

The Summer's flowers above his bed
Have sweetly bloomed and gone to rest,
Since last I held his little head
Against my sad and aching breast.

Above his sleep the snowy white
Has softly gathered, like a crown,
And hidden from my eyes' dim sight
The Winter grass-blades sere and brown.

But whether with the roses' red,
Or with the Winter's drapery,
His little grave be garlanded,
It is a lovely spot to me.

For there, when the shadows of the night
Arise and drive the day afar,
I see him with his crown of light,
Look down from Heaven like a star.

I see his beauteous smile enshrined
In bright waves from the starry sea;
I hear his sweet voice in the wind
That murmurs through each blossomed tree.

And well I know that, could he leave
His home in God's pure realm of bliss
He'd come and 'round my forehead wave,
The beauty of an angel's kiss.

You may pronounce my sorrow vain,
And counsel me with kindest breath;
But do you know a father's pain
When his first-born lies cold in death?

To hear the last tones of a voice,
The sweetest music to his ear;
To feel the rarest of all joys—
The richest gladness—disappear.

To see the shadows close about
The brightest ray that ever shone;
To see the coffin lid shut out
The dearest idol he has known.

This is the pain the father feels
When death has made his hearthstone drear,
When o'er the silent form he kneels
To weep above his loved one's bier.

Ah, surely you'll not call me weak
Because I love this lock of hair—
This curl which o'er my first-born's cheek
Once fluttered in the Summer air.

PARIS EXHIBITION.

lliant Feature---Lilacs and Birds in Diamonds.

e most brilliant display at the Exhibition course, to be met with in the French and sh sections. Both are equally attractive, et there are great differences observable in styles, both of exhibition and workmanship. The former's jewelers occupy a large by themselves. This is completely filled hey have, moreover, spread out on every so that there really seems to be a glut of in this deparment. Their wares are dis d in small cases, or cabinets, around the of the apartment, and also in separate extending the whole length of the center. are all of uniform pattern, being with plate glass and lined with on velvet. The general effect is thus ly increased and the result is to attract an nous crowd, so that whatever may be the tion of the other portions of the building is invariably crammed. The wealth en in this small space is immense and re s one in the variety and brilliancy of its s of the famous Green Vault at Dresden e the Sovereigns of Saxony for years de d in the shape of precious stones of every the produce of their silver mines. Dia s and pearls, emeralds and rubies are here ck as hail stones and of most translucent y and splendor. The admirable taste and of the Parisian Jewelers are everywhere owledged. One sees the results of here in multifarious shapes. And here is nothing that is new or striking its originality. The same old patterns are adhered to and there is slight, if any, im ment on the former style of setting. One e most fascinating collections belongs to cient and well known house of Rouvenat, at the last exhibition obtained a gold for the superior excellence of its work. tones they exhibit are mostly diamonds, heir setting is quite wonderful. Nothing exquisite or delicate in that respect can be ned. Here are draperies fringed with nts, lace in jewels elaborated into the delicate lines of diamond points, rubies ght into rose-hues of infinitely graduated s, and brooches like bursting fire-works eally dazzle the eye. Here is a cluster of laces in brilliants, every petal distinctly ayed and the whole combining to form the graceful and airy floral deception that could produce. It hangs from its stem the graceful wave of an ostrich plume. front of the cabinet is a humming-bird inute size and finish. The breast is of and the wings and body of diamonds of earest water. He is poised upon a spring finest steel, and every motion about him s him to sway to and fro, while the glit g sheen of light passes across his breast, as were swinging in the sunshine of his na Brazilian flowers. This little triumph of al skill and taste has been bought by the eror. The recipient thereof will be fortu for no lady could derive a more re dent ornament for the adornment of her Leading Rebels in England.

l. Forney, in a recent letter, gives the fol g personal information: But the most ficant of all these indications is, as I have the fate which has overtaken the Confed cause and the Confederate leaders. The re of Frazer, Trenholm & Co., the great at Liverpool through which the rebels ed on their enormous transactions in cot constructed and sent out their iron-clad and paid their agents in Europe and Can will lead to some rich disclosures. Our rnment, under the sagacious counsels of Charles Francis Adams, the Ameri minister in London, had anticipated catastrophe, and will take care to receive, the aid of the British courts, whatever be left from the wreck of this once proud all-defying organization. Not less signifi is the present condition of most of the federate leaders in London and Paris. John reckinridge is frequently seen at the Lang Hotel, where I am stopping, wofully ged in appearance, if not in opinions. A leman who conversed with him a few days says that Breckinridge did not hesitate to are against the good taste of the defeated leaders claiming any rights under the Con tion which they had repudiated and the ernment they had vainly fought to de , and that, whatever others might do, proposed to submit to fate. Judah P. jamin is a practitioner at the London and, unlike Breckinridge, does not enter the slightest hope of being restored to the ts he has doubly forfeited by his violated s to the American Republic, and now by new oath to the British Government. Mr. jamin is the counsel of the celebrated C. K. leau, of Liverpool, the financial head and of the Confederate cause during the re on, and now heavily involved in the over w of Fraser, Trenholm & Co. He is also to be the American editor of the London graph, and the writer of the articles that delight the Tory readers of that pretended ral paper, eulogistic of Jefferson Davis and "Lost Cause." The well-known George Sanders is also sojourning in London, has just passed through the ts of bankruptcy for certain individual ob tions. The violent Lewis P. Wigfall, of as, also here, is engaged in the precious ness of collecting the lists of the victims invested in the celebrated cotton loans of Confederate Government, and in the other rities of that miserable conspiracy itself. hope is that the British courts will decide, that the American Government will abide he decision, that the rebels enjoyed bellig t rights in the recent war, in which event credulous holders of these bonds are told by Wigfall that they will be reimbursed by conquering Government of the Union. ert Toombs, of Georgia, was recently in don, not less vehement than ever, though tly reduced in his physical proportions.

e Great Eastern a Skeleton Ship.

writer in an English paper gives the follow account of a singular superstition connected h the Great Eastern:

he is a ship with two cases or skins, as they called; that is, she is almost like one ship d inside another. Between the inner and er skin workmen can crawl for repairs. adfully dark and sepulchral, of course, it is here, for, from the nature of the space, the rkmen must be completely closed in, except at the spot at which he enters. Very few iths or shipwrights would care to work in alone, for two terrible specters are supposed haunt the place. Almost all the men who e engaged in the construction of the vessel ieve that, somewhere there in the darkness thick air, lie two skeletons, which can never found till the vessel is broken up. These are remains of the smith and his riveter, the lat being a lad. During the construction of the sel, these two worked all through the week, ping full time, and their work lay in between skins. The smith was an elderly man, of a ody temper, who made no friends, and was popular with his mates. No one had seen leaving work; nobody was interested about . But one pay-day both he and his lad failed appear at the pay table to draw their money. ey never were heard of more by any one who rked on the Great Eastern. Of course their sence had been noticed by the time keeper and er officials; but the missing men being, as I ve said, unpopular with their comrades, there d been very little inquiry about him until it s found that their money was not claimed. was then soon noted that the last time they d been seen they were at work in the "case" the ship, and before long it became a fixed tion that by a fall, or by the effect of some por, the two had been killed, or stunned until sed in; and all the host of men who worked the great ship believed that somewhere in the at hulk there lay two skeletons, which for me reason could never be found; the prosaic n that the old fellow and his helper had left thout warning for a better job finding, of urse, no favor.

I HAVE seen a woman professing to love rist more than the world clad in a silk dress sting $75; making up and trimmings of same, 0; bonnet (or apology for one,) $35; velvet antle, $150; diamond ring, $500; watch, ain, pin and other trappings, $300; total, 100—all hung upon frail, dying woman. I ave seen her, at a meeting in behalf of home ss wanderers in New York, wipe her eyes on an expensive embroidered handkerchief the story of their sufferings, and when the ntribution-box came round take from a well led portemonnaie, of costly workmanship, enty-five cents to aid the Society formed to romote their welfare. Ah, thought I, dollars r ribbons and pennies for Christ.—Exchange.

PITTSBURGH FEMALE COLLEGE.

The Musical Contest—Award of the Prizes—An Agreeable Entertainment.

The musical contest between the pupils of the Pittsburgh Female College, for the McKee and Mellor prizes, took place last evening in the Chapel connected with that institution. Upon the arrival of the hour indicated for the commencement of the exercises, the hall was filled with a large and appreciative audience, among which were a number of our most prominent musical professors. A large number of young ladies had been selected by Prof. Rohbock, the musical instructor of the College, as competent to compete for the prizes, but it not being desirable to extend the performances to a late hour, it was deemed advisable to reduce the number, to which a willing assent was given by the pupils. The following programme was observed:

PART I.—VOCAL.

Sophia Gamble	Pretty Rosaline	E. Hoffman.
Carrie Crawford	O, Ye Tears	Abt.
Emma Sawyer	The Forsaken	V. Gabriel.
Sadie Smyth	Little Bird, Why Singest Thou
Mary Petree	I'll Roam the Dewy Bowers	Haas.
Anna Foster	Comme E' Bello	Donizetti.
Maggie Clark	The Moonbeam	Holder.

PART II.—INSTRUMENTAL.

Cara Fisher	Grand March	Wollenhaupt.
Mary Brown	Concert Polka	W. Wallace.
Anna Foster	Robin Adair	B. Richards.
Emma Sawyer	Grand Valse	Leybach.
Marion David	Dancing Waves	Jasniski.
Anna Endsley	Grand Fantasie E Puritani	Katterer.
Sadie Smyth	Militaire Caprice	Katterer.
Anna McCague	Grand Waltz	W. Kuhe.
Zoe Swisshelm	Norma Fantazie	Leybach.
Carrie Crawford	Banjo	Gottschalk.
Lillie Cook	Caprice Martial	P. Spiner.
Ada Dunlap	Wings	W. Kuhe.

The various contestants exhibited unusual musical ability, and a diversity of opinion appeared to exist among the audience as to who should be awarded the highest meed of praise. The rendition of "I'll Roam the Dewy Bowers," by Miss Mary Pierce, "Comme E' Bello," by Miss Anna Foster, and "Pretty Rosaline," by Miss Sophia Gamble, were much admired, while several of the other songs were sung with very good effect. In regard to the instrumental portion of the programme, it was conceded that Miss Fisher, Miss Endsley, Miss Brown and Miss Crawford had exhibited considerable talent, but the wonderful euphony and expression displayed by Miss Zoe Swisshelm, one of the more youthful performers, rendered it almost certain that she would be awarded the prize.

The committee appointed to decide upon the merits of the various contestants and award the prizes, consisted of Prof. C. Tetedoux, Mr. and Mrs. H. Kleber, W. H. Everson, W. P. Marshall and Max Livingston. Upon the conclusion of the programme they retired from the Chapel, and after a short consultation, awarded the prize for singing (a beautifully bound book of music, presented by Chas. C. Mellor, Esq.,) to Miss Mary Pierce. Miss Sophia Gamble was also mentioned favorably. The magnificent gold medal, (donated by the late Thos. McKee) was awarded to Miss Zoe Swisshelm, (a daughter of Mrs. Jane G. Swisshelm.) The committee regretted that a second prize had not been offered, in which case it would have been awarded to Miss Mary Brown.

The proficiency exhibited by the young lady contestants was highly complimentary to themselves, and bore evidence of the success which has attended Prof. Rohbock's efforts to impart to them a complete and thorough musical education. The audience was delighted with the entire performance, and departed with feelings of pride that our city contained so truly meritorious an institution as the Pittsburgh Female College.

The closing examinations of the present term of this institution commenced on Wednesday, and will be concluded on Tuesday next. On Sunday morning the Baccalaureate sermon will be preached at Christ Church by the pastor, Rev. Dr. L. F. Morgan, and on Wednesday and Thursday evenings the performances of the graduating class will take place.

COURT PROCEEDINGS.

COURT OF QUARTER SESSIONS.—Before Judge Mellon.

SENT TO THE PENITENTIARY.

Upon the re-assembling of Court yesterday morning, the case of Peter Stewart, indicted for attempting to steal a watch from George Harmons, at Sweitzer Hall, on Penn street, on Tuesday night last, was resumed. The jury rendered a verdict of guilty, when Mr. Large, the prisoner's counsel, made a motion for a new trial. The Court, however, overruled the motion, and sentenced Stewart to undergo an imprisonment in the Penitentiary for a period of one year.

LIQUOR CASES.

John Keller, of the First ward, plead guilty on two charges of illegal liquor selling, and was sentenced to pay a fine of $50 on the first case, and $100 on the second.

Rody Swaney, of the Fourth ward, plead guilty on a charge of selling liquor without license, and was sentenced to pay a fine of twenty dollars, and twenty days' imprisonment in the county jail.

Peter Murphy, of the Sixth ward, plead guilty on two charges of illegal liquor selling, and was sentenced to pay a fine of fifty dollars and costs in each case.

ACQUITTED OF LARCENY.

Philip Oehse, was arraigned on a charge of larceny, preferred by Wm. Divine. Oehse, who is a hackman, sold a wagon to Divine, with the understanding that it should be returned to him in case the purchase money had not been paid at a stipulated period. At the time designated in the contract, fifteen dollars of the amount remaining unpaid, Oeshe went to Divine's premises and took the wagon away. Thos. M. Marshall, Esq., testified that he met the defendant on the street one day, who asked him whether he had a right to take the wagon. Mr. Marshall said he informed him that he had a right to carry out the agreement, when defendant said he would take it. Mr. Marshall had not seen the agreement at the time, or he would have advised differently. Defendant's counsel contended that he acted under the belief that he had a legal right to take the wagon, and not with a criminal intent. The jury rendered a verdict of not guilty, the defendant to pay the costs.

THE TRAIN WRECKER ACQUITTED.

Patrick Monagham, indicted for placing obstructions on the track of the Pennsylvania Railroad, on Sunday, the 7th of April last, near Turtle Creek, by which an express train was thrown from the track, and Martin Bracken, a brakeman killed, was next arraigned. Messrs. J. H. Hampton and Wm. C. Moreland, Esqs., appeared for the prosecution. The prisoner being without counsel, John R. Large, Esq., was assigned by the Court for the defense. Mr. Moreland, in opening the case, related the circumstances connected with the destruction of the train, and read from the penal code the section under which the defendant had been indicted. Mr. Moreland also stated that if it appeared from the evidence that the prisoner was insane when he placed the obstructions on the track, he could not be held accountable for the felony charged against him, but he could be placed under such restraint as would prevent him from committing similar acts in the future.

The examination of witnesses was then commenced, but nothing was adduced further than appeared before the Coroner's jury. No doubt appeared to exist in the minds of the witnesses that the accused was insane, and too dangerous to be permitted to go at large. He had been begging around the country for some time previous, and strong presumptive evidence existed that he had burned the barn of S. Schoyer, Esq., at Swissvale, some months since, in a spirit of revenge for some fancied wrong.

Mr. Hampton stated that he had no doubt of the guilt of the prisoner, and only for the fact that he was believed to be insane, he would be arraigned for the murder of Martin Bracken. The railroad company desired a full investigation of the matter, but would not press conviction, if the prisoner could be properly disposed of.

Mr. Large, counsel for the defense, declined to address the jury at length, but remarked that a person bereft of reason should not be held accountable for any felony he might commit.

After the customary charge by the Court, the jury retired, and in a short time returned the following verdict: "Not guilty, by reason of insanity." The defendant was then remanded to jail, and will be sent to Dixmont Insane Asylum.

A DISORDERLY HOUSE.

Mary Ann Smith, a resident of Mary street, Birmingham, was arraigned on an indictment for keeping a disorderly house. Henry Boilman, the prosecuting witness, testified that persons were in the habit of visiting Mrs. Smith's residence at all hours of the night, and disturbing the quiet of the neighborhood by their disorderly proceedings. The case had not been concluded at adjournment.

ATTEMPTED SUICIDE.—A man named Alexander McQuaid, residing at Belleverion, on the Monongahela river, attempted to commit suicide on Sunday evening last by shooting himself. He is very ill of consumption, and getting low spirited, determined to put an end to his life. He procured a shot gun and loaded it with shot. He then went out to the yard, braced himself up against the fence, placed the muzzle of the gun to his head, for the purpose of blowing his brains out, and pulled the trigger with his foot. Just as his foot shoved the trigger, however, the gun slipped down and the contents were deposited in his breast. The shots did not kill him, but he is now lying in a critical condition, and no hopes are entertained of his recovery.

OIL REFINERS ASSOCIATION.—As will be seen elsewhere, a meeting of the Refiners Association will be held at their room, No. 4 Dalzell Building, Duquesne Way, at three P. M. to-day. Immediately after the meeting the stockholders of the Merchants National Telegraph Company will meet for the election of officers and other important business. Every stockholder is directly interested in the business to be brought before this meeting, and is particularly requested to attend. By mistake, notice of this meeting was given for last Tuesday, instead of to-day.

FAILED IN THE ATTEMPT.—A married lady, residing on Third street, near Smithfield, attempted to commit suicide on Wednesday night, by taking an ounce of laudanum. A physician was immediately summoned, and the life of the desperate woman saved.

LITERARY CONTEST.—The third annual contest between the Irving and Philomathean Literary Associations of the Western University, will be held this evening, at Masonic Hall, and the public are invited to attend.

[From the Pittsburgh Evening Chronicle.]

Testimonial to the Post.

We have already announced that the members of the Southwestern Relief Commission of Louisville, had, from their own individual means, procured a silver service, to be presented to Messrs. James P. Barr & Co., of the Pittsburgh Post, in acknowledgement of their efforts in behalf of the starving poor of the South. Yesterday the beautiful testimonial was received by the gentlemen to whom it was presented. It consists of a large salver, a pitcher and two gold lined goblets. The articles are exceedingly beautiful, and are of solid silver, suitably inscribed. For a few days the set will be on exhibition in the window of Wattles's jewelry store, Fifth street. Again we congratulate our neighbors on this substantial recognition of their efficient services. The following is the correspondence between the donors and the recipients:

SOUTHWESTERN RELIEF COMMISSION,
For Aid of Destitute in Southern States,
Louisville, Ky., June 15, 1867.

MESSRS. JAMES P. BARR & CO., Editors of Pittsburgh Post.

Gentlemen: The undersigned, committee, in the name of the individual members of the "Southwestern Relief Commission," in remembrance of your no less efforts in behalf of the starving women and children of the South, tender to you a Silver Pitcher, pair of Goblets and Salver with the following inscription:

"Presented by the members of the Southwestern Relief Commission, Louisville, Ky., June 10th, 1867, to James P. Barr & Co., editors of the Pittsburgh Post, as a memento for valuable services rendered the suffering women and children of the South."

"Inasmuch as ye have done it unto one of the least of these, my brethren, ye have done it unto me."

We doubt not the consciousness of having discharged a duty to suffering humanity is of more real value to you than anything we can add, but we feel a gratification in giving expression to our personal feelings by sending you this testimonial.

With our best wishes for your future prosperity and happiness, we are, very respectfully, your obedient servants,

JAMES TRABUE,
R. A. ROBINSON,
ARTHUR PETER,
E. L. HUFFMAN,
SAMUEL A. MILLER.

PITTSBURGH, June 20, 1867.

TO JAMES TRABUE, R. A. ROBINSON, ARTHUR PETERS, E. L. HUFFMAN AND SAMUEL A. MILLER, of the Southwestern Relief Commission:

Gentlemen:—We have just received your esteemed favor of the 15th, together with Silver Pitcher, Medallion Goblets and Salver.

We thank you, gentlemen, for the beautiful and valuable present which you have been pleased to prepare and send to us in recognition of our labors for Southern Relief. It is not the less gratefully received because wholly unexpected, and it is by no means due to us alone.

All men are taught by the laws of God, who is All Merciful, to "feed the hungry," without asking why they were overtaken by famine. The ordinances of Christian men, which are only good when reared on a divine foundation, declare that the innocent offspring and the helpless dependents of the greatest criminals, shall not be punished for the real or imputed sins of those to whom they must look for shelter and for bread. Mercy and forgiveness are taught in the church and in the school, in the hall of justice and at every Christian hearthstone. And men and women who daily violate human and heaven made laws, whatever else be the punishment deserved, are never doomed to starvation either before or after their guilt is determined. Therefore, however great may have been the errors of those who acted for society in the South, their wives and children should not be allowed to perish for food. Believing in these lessons and their sequences, our action in this business was nothing more or less than our duty, and we were amply rewarded, if reward has been sought, for all we could have done, even if the results had been a thousand times greater, by the fact that our poor endeavors were so nobly and generously seconded, and that too, by many who could ill afford to divide their slender store. To these last more than to us be the honor and comfort of doing these deeds, which you so warmly applaud. And there is more to be thankful for. We have made the encouraging discovery that though fanaticism may rage and revenge shriek fiercely for more and still more blood, there are yet many hearts that can be touched by gentle pity—many minds that are filled with the "charity that suffereth long and is kind."

We shall ever hold your elegant testimonial in grateful regard, and we beg leave to repeat our thanks to all who, in the excess of their good feeling, deemed us worthy of so flattering a gift.

Very sincerely yours,
JAMES P. BARR & CO.

TROT AT PERRYSVILLE PARK.—The trot to harness yesterday afternoon at Carson's Park, at Perrysville, attracted a large turn out of turfmen and admirers of fast horses. "Sorrel Ned's" performances yesterday astonished many of his admirers, and he won the race in three straight heats with the greatest ease. The following is a summary of the race:

NEW DINING ROOMS.—Mr. J. H. Williamson has opened a new dining saloon for ladies and gentlemen at No. 36 Market street, which he has fitted up in excellent style. A grand opening supper was given Wednesday evening, the bill of fare comprising the substantials, with many of the delicacies of the season. Upon the conclusion of the entertainment the company adjourned to the spacious parlor, where a number of excellent songs were sung, and at a late hour the party separated, with the best wishes for Mr. Williamson's success.

AN INEXCUSABLE HOAX.—The item in this department yesterday connecting the name of Capt. David Bly with a quoiting match was furnished our reporter as a fact by those who were supposed to be responsible parties. It turns out there is no truth in the alleged match, and that it was perpetrated as a joke. Capt. Bly does not interest himself in sporting matters, but is a business man, and to business only he gives his attention.

SCHOOL EXAMINATIONS.—The closing examinations in the Ninth Ward Public Schools commenced yesterday. The examination of rooms number eleven and twelve was concluded yesterday, and the others will follow in course. This evening an entertainment, consisting of speeches, essays and singing, will be held in Trinity M. E. Church. The house will be decorated and a pleasant time is expected. Admission free.

CHILD SCALDED.—A little girl aged four years, daughter of Mr. Wm. Walker, residing on North High street, Steubenville, accidentally fell into a vessel of boiling water, which was standing on the floor, on Wednesday about noon, and was severely scalded about the neck and shoulders. The child's injuries are very severe, but hopes are entertained of her recovery.

SEVERELY CUT.—A man by the name of Lankard, residing in the Second ward, Allegheny, was severely cut on Wednesday afternoon by accidentally driving his hand and arm through a pane of glass. A deep gash was inflicted on the wrist, severing an artery, which caused considerable loss of blood. The injury was dressed by Dr. W. W. Marcus.

FAIR IN LAWRENCEVILLE.—A Fair and Festival is being held in Lawrenceville for the benefit of the First Presbyterian Church, of that borough, of which Rev. R. Lea is pastor. The fair will close this evening, and all those who have not attended yet should do so this evening. No admission fee is asked to the Fair.

OFF FOR EUROPE.—Robert Liddell, Esq., one of the proprietors of the Phoenix Brewery, in the Ninth ward, left the city on Wednesday for New York, on his way to Europe. He will sail in the steamer City of Antwerp to-morrow, and will return in September.

POLICE INTELLIGENCE.

[Before Mayor Morrison, of Allegheny.]

LARCENY OF A COAT.

P. N. Black, clerk at Carson's Hotel, on Ohio street, Allegheny, yesterday appeared at the Allegheny Mayor's office, and made information for larceny against two men named John Wilson and Jas. Kennedy. Deponent alleges that about one o'clock on Wednesday morning, the defendants, in company with a third party, came to the hotel and asked for lodgings for the night. While the latter party was being shown a room by the deponent, Wilson and Kennedy, who had been left in the office until he came down stairs, left the house, and on the return of the clerk, he found that a coat, valued at twenty dollars, which he had left in the office before going up stairs, was missing, and he verily believes the defendants stole it. The accused were arrested, and placed in the lock-up to await a hearing.

STEALING AT THE CIRCUS.

M. E. Johnson, one of the attaches of Mike Lipman's Circus, lodged a complaint against one Geo. Thompson, for larceny. The prosecutor alleges that while the circus was showing on the West Common, Allegheny, a pet parrot, valued at fifty dollars, and a bridle, valued at ten dollars, were stolen, and from information received he believed Thompson was the thief. A warrant was issued for the accused's arrest.

[Before Alderman Strain.]

AGGRAVATED ASSAULT AND BATTERY.

Malinda Lucas on Wednesday instituted suit against Sarah Mitchell, for aggravated assault and battery. The parties are both colored, and reside in "Hayti." Deponent alleges that defendant assaulted her on Tuesday, and struck her on the cheek with a brick, injuring her quite severely. The accused was arrested yesterday, and committed to jail in default of bail for a hearing to-day.

KNOCKED DOWN.

Wm. Miller, of the Eighth ward, alleged that Henry Wilson had committed an assault and battery upon him, by knocking him down and abusing him. The case was held for a hearing.

NEIGHBORS' QUARRELS IN STRAWBERRY ALLEY.

Catharine McKeown, on Thursday lodged information against John Sherry, for assault and battery and surety of the peace, and against his wife, Catharine Sherry, for surety of the peace. Both defendants are accused of having used violent and threatening language towards deponent, and John is charged with having choked the prosecutrix.

Catharine Hart also lodged complaint against Mrs. Sherry, for breach of the peace, alleging that the latter made violent threats, and acted in a disorderly manner, disturbing the neighborhood. The parties all reside on Strawberry alley. The accused were both arrested yesterday.

Mrs. Sherry then instituted a cross-suit for assault and battery against Mrs. Hart and Mrs. McKeown. Deponent alleges that on the 17th inst., the defendants put her out of her house and struck her with her broom, and that on the same day, Mrs. Hart slapped the face of the prosecutrix's baby, when she was nursing.

John Sherry then lodged complaint against Patrick McKeown, husband of Mrs. McKeown, for assault and battery. The defendant is charged with having knocked Sherry down to the ground, and then kicked him. A hearing in all these cases was had yesterday, which resulted in their being held for a further hearing this afternoon.

[Before Alderman McMasters.]

QUARREL BETWEEN CANVASMEN.

Peter Slaunker yesterday instituted suit for assault and battery against Daniel Mullinger, canvas master of Mike Lipman's circus. Slaunker was a canvasman, and in taking down the tent in Allegheny, on Wednesday evening, he did something which did not suit Mullinger, whereupon the latter, it is alleged, assaulted him, and beat and abused him in a most shameful manner. A warrant for the arrest of the accused was issued.

[Before Alderman Lindsey.]

FELONIOUS ASSAULT AND BATTERY.

Mary Sewell yesterday appeared and made an information against one Mary Weaver, charging her with felonious assault and battery. The latter was arrested, and after a hearing was committed to jail for trial, in default of the necessary bail.

[Before Alderman Taylor.]

ALLEGED LARCENY.

George Fitzpatrick was arrested yesterday on a charge of larceny, preferred by Samuel Moore, keeper of the blacksmith shop on the corner of Penn and O'Hara streets, in the Fifth ward. Fitzpatrick was accused of having stolen a number of tools from Moore's shop on Wednesday. The charge was not established, and the case was dismissed.

ASSAULT AND BATTERY CASES.

Melchor Leibert, of Lawrenceville, lodged complaint against Philip Sherman for assault and battery, alleging that the latter shoved him violently and called him hard names.

Mary A. Matter, of the Fifth ward, charged Philip Bellstein, of Allegheny, with assault and battery, in coming into her house and beating and shaking her rudely. The accused has not yet been arrested.

AN OLD FRIEND.—For many years the Press of the country has chronicled the beneficial effects of HOSTETTER'S STOMACH BITTERS. Editors, authors, physicians, merchants, officers of the army and navy, chemists, counsellors, ministers of the gospel, in short, a great cloud of witnesses of every profession, trade and calling, have testified to its efficacy as a tonic and regulating medicine. The names and statements of these witnesses have been published in the public prints. Many of them are well known to the whole public. Their testimony has never been challenged or impugned. This has been tried and pronounced, on the authority of those whose lives and health it has preserved, a pure, harmless and eminently salutary preparation. Attempts have been made to rival it. They have failed. There is nothing equal to the enjoyment experienced by the afflicted when using this valuable specific. Its mild tone, its sure and vigorous action upon a disordered stomach, and the cleansing of the entire human body, recommend it to the whole community as a RELIABLE FRIEND.

FINANCE AND TRADE.

THURSDAY EVENING, June 20th, 1867.

A good deal of trouble and inconvenience has been experienced by holders of the Government registered bonds in getting the interest. It required a certain routine of forms which to most persons were not familiar, and although the coupon bonds are not as safe against loss by theft or otherwise, yet they can be handled with such facility, and the interest calculated so readily that any person can manage them. In order to obviate the difficulties about the registered bonds held in this city and surrounding country, Pittsburgh has been designated as a place at which the interest on the same is made payable. The following letter, addressed to the banking firm of Ira B. McVay & Co., from the Treasury Department at Washington, contains the directions:

TREASURY DEPARTMENT,
WASHINGTON, June 18th, 1867.

GENTLEMEN: In reply to your inquiries of the 17th inst. I have the honor to state:

Pittsburgh and Buffalo have been added to the former list of places at which interest may be made payable upon any of the various loans of the United States; and persons holding any such registered bond standing in their name, the interest whereon is now payable at any other point, may have the place of such payment changed on their written application, addressed to "The Registry of the Treasury, Washington, D. C.," describing their securities by the loan, and number of each certificate, and designating the point at which payment is desired. I remain very respectfully, &c.,

W. H. WEST,
For Assistant Secretary.

I. B. McVay & Co., Pittsburgh, Pa.

—No change is noticed to-day in the local money market, and there are no evidences of life or animation in any department of trade. Still there is no want of confidence in the future. It is a pause merely in mercantile activity, and though it is too late now to expect much until the usual season of Summer dullness shall have passed away, yet if the present hopeful prospects of an abundant harvest are realized, as all the accounts from the West and South lead us to expect, the ensuing Fall will be characterized as much by its activity, as the present time is for the want of business energy and animation.

—Railway stocks are pretty much at a stand, held so by the great lack of interest in transactions. The Stock Exchange, at present, is represented as greatly in need of some excitement. There is no great speculative genius at either of the boards, to rouse the energies of the street by the boldness of his movements and the mystery of his operations; "Uncle Daniel" is quiet, and the Commodore moves so shyly that no one knows what he is about. Stocks rest on their own merits, and everybody is looking for something to turn up. Many of the active operators in the street have gone away for the summer, some have gone to the Paris Exposition, some have gone West, and one at least has gone South to buy wheat instead of Rock Island. The annual examination of the Erie railway track and property commenced on Monday. If the examiners would but give the public a truthful statement of the complicated affairs of this great corporation they would perform a service for which a very large number of anxious inquirers would be very grateful.

WOOL MARKET.

OFFICE OF THE PITTSBURGH COMMERCIAL,
THURSDAY EVENING, June 20, 1867.

The wool market continues depressed, owing to the downward tendency of woolens. There is no encouragement to increase productions. Notwithstanding stocks are light, prices continue weak. The trade for woolens must improve, or wool must decline in price still further. The receipts of wool continue light, but fully up to the demands for present use.

The following are the market cash prices paid here for good merchantable conditioned lots of wool:

Common fleece	38@40c
Tub washed	50@[illegible]
¼ and ½ blood fleece	[illegible]
¾ blood fleece	45@47c
Full blood fleece (choice)	47@50c

Market dull and stocks light.

The New York Commercial List of the 19th says: Domestic wool remains about the same as for many weeks past, with, perhaps, more tone to the market for choice grades of fleece, such as XX, of which we believe, there is none in first hands. The low and medium grades, on the other hand, are unmistakably weak, notwithstanding the light supply. Manufacturers still adhere to the hand-to-mouth policy, and for obvious reasons. But little of the new clip has thus far been received, the season being fully two weeks later than usual. Sheep-shearing is now being prosecuted actively all over the West and the press of that section are unanimous in the opinion that the clip will prove to be lighter on the same number of sheep than last year, the cold wet weather during the spring having prevented the secretion of the usual amount of oil. There is every reason to believe, however, that there has been a considerable addition to flocks, and that the yield will exceed that of last year. There is an entire absence of speculation in the interior, but it is nevertheless expected the clip will come forward freely, from the fact that money is scarce throughout the West, which will naturally render farmers anxious to realize. Foreign is quiet and prices are full as low, and in some instances lower, than before the new tariff went into operation. In commenting upon the effect of that law, it may be remembered that we took the ground that the exclusion of so important a customer as the United States from foreign markets by prohibitory duties, would possibly lead to a reduction abroad equal to the increased rates imposed by the new law. That decline is now taking place, under increased supplies, in the principal markets of Europe. For instance, the imports of wool into Great Britain during the first four months of the current year reached 54,673,609 pounds, against 41,-068,775 pounds during the same period in 1866. This has led to a settled weakness there, and a similar state of affairs exists in the leading Continental markets. The sales include 75,000 lbs State and Western fleece at 48@57c for low to fine, including 15,000 lbs new Ohio at 50c for fine washed, and 29c for unwashed; also 25,000 lbs California, 18@25c for burry to good unwashed; 35,000 lbs Texas, 21@32½c; 20,000 lbs pulled, 40½c for lambs' and 44@47c for pulled; 25 bales domestic mixed flocks, 14c; 100 do Cape, 29c; 4,000 lbs East India, 15½c; and 5,000 lbs fine Frias on private terms.

PRODUCE AND GENERAL MARKETS

OFFICE OF THE PITTSBURGH COMMERCIAL,
THURSDAY EVENING, June 20, 1867.

Our general markets to-day were only moderately active. Merchants have generally settled down to the opinion that that there is no prospect of any activity in trade until the fall business opens.

A third house sold medium spring at $11 00@ 11 50; good spring at $11 50@12 00, and winter at $13 00 @13 50 ₩ bbl.

GRAIN—In the absence of reported sales of wheat, we omit quotations.

RYE—No demand for rye. We note a sale of 200 bushels rye, from depot, at $1 20 ₩ bush. Rye in New York is reported by the Commercial List, of Wednesday, as lower and very dull; sales of 23,000 bushels of Western were made at $1 23@1 35 ₩ bush.

BARLEY—Sales of barley were made from depot at $1 10 ₩ bushel.

OATS—Demand only moderate. Sales from store were made at 65@68c and 1 car, to arrive, at 63c ₩ bushel. From first hands oats are hardly quotable at over 61@62c ₩ bushel.

CORN—Prices from store are nominally 85@90c ₩ bushel. There have been no sales of any consequence in this market for some time. Some twelve or fifteen cars were shipped East on commission, today. This is principally caused by a break in the Erie canal, near Utica, which will require several days to repair, and which has caused somewhat of a reaction in the New York market. A good part of the recent decline was recovered on the announcement of the damage to the canal.

FEED—We note sales of 2,000 lbs bran at $1 75 ₩ hundred.

POTATOES—We note sales of 1 car Peach Blow Potatoes, from store, at $1 20; 1 do from depot, at $1 15, and sales of small lots, from store, at $1 15 ₩ bushel.

PITTSBURGH OIL TRADE.

OFFICE OF THE PITTSBURGH COMMERCIAL,
FRIDAY, June 21, 1867.

Business remains very dull, so far as relates to oil we have seldom witnessed less disposition to operate than has existed for some days past. The crude market was weak, holders seemed anxious to realize. The rates were nominal—6c for bulk was the outside figure yesterday. The sales all told were 2,378 barrels, divided in the following order: 1,000 barrels bulk, on the spot, at 6c, gravity not mentioned; 78 barrels do, on the spot, at 6c ₩ gallon. Sales of 300 barrels at 6c, bbls returned, and 10,000 barrels bulk to be delivered at any time during 1868, buyer's option, at 12½c ₩ gallon. Total sales 11,378 barrels. There were no receipts reported for the past two days. The refiners have a good supply on hand, and are not purchasing at this time. The reports from Oil City, in regard to the price of oil, are conflicting.

REFINED OIL—The market was dull, buyers manifest no disposition to operate to any extent at the prevailing figures. The eastern markets are very dull, with little or no export demand. The only sales that were consummated yesterday were the following: 2,000 bbls bonded, Philadelphia delivery, as follows: 500 bbls standard white September 25¼c; 500 bbls do October 25½c; 500 bbls do November 25½c and 500 bbls do December 25½c ₩ gallon. Other lots were under negotiation, but had not been consummated up to the close. No sales were reported for immediate delivery.

FREE OIL—Dull with small sales for local purposes.

NEW YORK.

The market for crude, says the Commercial List, of Wednesday, has ruled very dull, and prices remain unchanged; the sales are 600 bbls low gravity, in packages, at 16c, and 2,000 do, 40@47 gravity, in bulk, part at 9½c (an extreme price); we quote, at the close, 40@47 gravity, in bulk, 8@9c, and in shipping order 14@15c. Refined in bond continues very dull, and sellers have been obliged to accept a decline of 1@2c, the market closing at 22@23c for S. W. and 24@25c for P. W.; sales 4,500 bbls P. W., June, 23½c, mostly at 23@22½c; 1,000 do P. W., July, do S. W., for June, 23@24c, B. O., 1,000 do. July, 23@24c, B. O.; 10,000 gallons S. W. in tin, 30c; 6,000 do P. W., on terms. Free is dull and nominal, and we hear of no sales.

FOREIGN CIRCULAR.

OIL CITY, PA., June 20, 1867.

BREADSTUFFS.

The Chicago Tribune, of Wednesday last, reports the most favorable accounts, from nearly every part of the country concerning the grain crop. In consequence the markets for breadstuffs, for a week past, has shown a downward tendency for most articles, and, where not controlled by speculators, values exhibit a marked depression. The large decline which has taken place in wheat is the most noticeable, says the Tribune. One week ago, No. 1 spring was selling at $2 15, since which time it sold as low as $1 98—a decline of 17c ₩ bush. No. 2 spring one week ago brought $1 95@1 96, and touched as low a point as $1 65 on Monday, at which price it opened on Change yesterday, but subsequently rallied to $1 70 @1 71. The decline during one week has been 26@30c ₩ bush. Corn has been variable. On Tuesday, the 11th inst., it sold as low as 79c for No. 1 in store; subsequently, under a demand to fill short contracts, it advanced to 90@95c; fell back to 82c, but was firmer yesterday, and closed on Change at 85@85½c. Oats have been irregular, and have advanced. One week ago, they were dull at 55 @56c for No. 2 in store, sold down to 54c, but have during the past few days steadily improved, and yesterday reached 60c, but closed on 'Change at 57@58c. Rye has ruled dull, and prices have tended steadily downward. Values have declined 6@7c per bushel. Barley has been neglected, and prices have ruled entirely nominal. The great demand has been mostly for corn, and, in the aggregate, a large amount has changed hands. Predictions are made by some of our leading operators that No. 1 corn will sell in this market as high as $1 25 ₩ bush between this and the middle of August.

The New York Commercial List, of Wednesday last, says we have rarely known the flour market to be so depressed and thoroughly demoralized as at present. Notwithstanding the heavy fall in prices during the past six weeks, each day since our last has witnessed a further decline, our revised quotations of State and Western being 50@80c below those current last Friday. This state of affairs is due to the accumulating evidences of a heavy wheat crop, which, in the Southern and Middle States, is now being secured in excellent condition, and to the indisposition of the trade to lay in supplies beyond their immediate requirements, thus avoiding the risk of serious losses in a further possible shrinkage of values. Yesterday, it was difficult to get bids, and those that came anywhere near the mark were not rejected. Prices ruled with great irregularity, some standard kinds of fresh ground, of which there is a known scarcity selling at only 15@20c below Friday's prices, while forced sales of all other kinds were made at a reduction of 50c. The sales are 15,000 barrels, market closing flat, with prices largely nominal.

MARRIED:

MELLOR—REINHART—On Thursday evening, June 20th, by the Rev. S. F. Scovel, CHARLES C. MELLOR and LAURA, daughter of the late A. G. Reinhart, Esq.

We would fain write an epithalamium on the above event, but time forbids. Our friend Mellor has won a prize in the amiable and accomplished young lady he has chosen for his partner through life, compared with which the golden baubles aw rded at Universal Expositions are as dross. The Union of two such talented musicians cannot but be fraught with harmony, so that the melody of their lives will never be interrupted by any dissonance. A large circle of friends unite in wishing the young couple a full measure of happiness and prosperity. That this will be theirs, we trust the tenor of their lives will prove, for they deserve it.

LINDSAY—HOWE—On Wednesday, June 19, at the residence of the bride's parents, by the Rev. James Brown, Mr. JAMES M. LINDSAY, of Pittsburgh, to Miss AMELIA H. HOWE, of Washington, Pa.

(Washington, Pa. papers please copy.)

PETRIE—DALLAS—On Thursday morning, June 20, at the residence of the bride's parents, by the Rev. John McMillan, I. PRESTON PETRIE, of Richland Grove Illinois, and JENETTE DALLAS, of Allegheny city.

The friends of the family are respectfully invited to attend the funeral from the residence of her husband, Francis G. Bailey, on FRIDAY, the 21st, at 10 o'clock A. M.

June 20	509	5 75@9 38

Being an increase in sales of 180 head.

HOGS—Were in good supply. The market was very weak; holders, in order to effect sales, made concessions of 50@75c ₩ cwt. The market closed with a good supply unsold, and the advantage on the side of buyers. The operations for the past two weeks were as follows:

ALLEGHENY CATTLE MARKET.

OFFICE OF THE PITTSBURGH COMMERCIAL,
THURSDAY, June 20, 1867.

CATTLE—The market during the week was one of extreme dullness. Buyers were shy and not disposed to operate. The offerings were light, not exceeding 450 head at the close of the market. A number of head were left over. The present high prices demanded by holders have caused buyers to hold off. The rates, as compared with last week, exhibit but little change. The fact is, prices will have to decline before large sales can be effected. As usual, the largest inquiry was for the better descriptions. Inferior lots were neglected. Below will be found the sales for the past two weeks:

June 13	588	$4 50@9 50
June 20	435	5 00@9 38

Being a falling off in the sales of 153 head. Some 80 head were disposed of. The terms were withheld.

HOGS—Being out of season, there was nothing done worthy of notice, and prices are about the same. The sales for the past two weeks were—

June 13	70	$6 50@7 50
June 20	80	6 50@7 50

SHEEP—The market was dull; most of the offerings were of the common order, for which there was but little demand. In fact drovers found it difficult to dispose of them at any price. Good fat sheep found ready purchasers at current prices. The sales for the past two weeks were—

June 13	125	$4 00@6 50
June 20	130	4 00@6 00

STEAMERS ARRIVED AND DEPARTED

Elisha Bennett	Cox	Greensboro.
Chieftain	Hendrickson	Greensboro.
Fayette	Donaldson	Brownsville.
Elizabeth	Houghton	Elizabeth.
Leni Leoti	Hamilton	Parkersburg.
R. Moore	Kerr	Portsmouth.

Gallatin	Carlisle	Greensboro.
Elisha Bennett	Cox	Greensboro.
Elizabeth	Houghton	Elizabeth.
Elector	Phillips	Greensboro.
Argosy	Vandergrift	Cincinnati.
Leclaire No. 2	Saint	Parkersburg.

THE RIVER AND MATTERS ALONG THE WHARF.—The weather since our last was pleasant. Business on the landing was fair, with a moderate amount of freight shipping. The marks on the Monongahela pier indicated three feet two inches. The metal marks at the foot of Wood street, four feet nine inches. The Argosy left for Parkersburg with a good trip. She will be followed to-day by the Leni Leoti at noon. We have now a daily line of light draught boats to that port. The Lorena and barges came in from St. Louis with a big cargo. The Robert Moore is announced for Portsmouth this day at 4 P. M. The Armadillo, Capt. Swaney, takes her departure for Cairo and St. Louis this day. She will tow a barge and take out a big trip. The favorite Allegheny river packet Ida Rees No. 2 has moved round to the Monongahela landing, waiting for something to turn up. This boat is in fine order and admirably adapted for the packet trade. Lock No. 4 on the Monongahela is out of order. Boats will not be able to pass until the necessary repairs have been completed. The towboat Wild Duck and model barges Cambria, Swan and Dove, in charge of Captain Anawalt, are announced for Cairo and St. Louis this day. The Bayard, Capt. Moore's pet, came up to the landing yesterday to lay up. The Robert Moore brought up a good trip.

THE towboat Stella arrived at New Orleans on Wednesday with 160,000 bushels of coal.

THE rates of freight from Louisville South have advanced 25 per cent. over last week's rates.

THE tow-boat Panther, from New Orleans, passed Cairo on the 17th, en route for this city.

THE steamer Westmoreland, Capt. Evans, passed Evansville on Tuesday, on her way to New Orleans.

THE steamer Alps passed Cairo on Tuesday on her way to this city. She had no tow.

BIG COAL RECEIPTS.—The coal tow-boats Simpson Horner, Ajax and Grand Lake arrived at New Orleans, last Friday, with 765,000 bushels.

THE steamer Interpreter and barges left St. Louis for Pittsburgh on Tuesday with six hundred tons of iron ore.

CAPT. WM. DEAN is in Cincinnati, looking after the interest of the steamers Camelia, Columbia and America.

THE steamer Wauanita, Capt. Thomas Sherman, is announced to leave Cincinnati for New Orleans after the Ezra Porter.

THE steamer Argosy left yesterday for Cincinnati on her last trip this season. She has been chartered to the Big Sandy company during low water.

THE steamer Leni Leoti, Capt. Hamilton, leaves this day for Parkersburg and intermediate points. This boat has the best of accommodations, and is in charge of careful and attentive officers.

THE Cincinnati Enquirer says that the steamer Belle, after making one more trip to Pittsburgh, will run as a regular packet between Cincinnati and Parkersburg.

THE Westmoreland passed down. We would have thrown a rock at her, but our respect for old age prevented us.—Louisville Democrat.

The Democrat don't give the correct reason. The will was good for the performance but the flesh was weak.

CAPTAIN R. B. ROBERTS, an old Red river steamboatman, died recently while en route from New Orleans to the Arkansas Hot Springs, for the benefit of his health. He was a resident of the former place.

THE Mound City Journal says that Messrs. Keyes, Stanley & Co., of that place are building at North Caledonia, fifty flatboats for transporting staves to New Orleans. At New Orleans they are transferred to vessels for transportation to Europe.

WEDNESDAY'S Cincinnati Commercial says: Captain Andrew Hartupee, the inventor of the famous machinery of the Great Republic, passed through the city yesterday, on his way from Pittsburgh to St. Louis, where he goes to join the Great Republic.

THE steamer Belle was detained on her downward trip. She did not leave Cincinnati until Wednesday. She reshipped 90 tons of freight for the Louisville mail boats, and a small lot for New Orleans on the Ezra Porter.

THE river reporter of the Cincinnati Gazette is mistaken. We did not complain. We merely called his attention to an error, taking it for granted that he preferred being correct. If we made a mistake we stand corrected.

THE Maggie Hays, Captain McCarty, passed Cincinnati en route from St. Louis to this place. She had a good load, including 100 barrels flour for Portsmouth, 100 barrels sand for Wheeling, and 200 tons ore for Steubenville.

THE fine passenger steamer R. Moore, Capt. Kerr, leaves to-day at 4 P. M. for Portsmouth and intermediate points. Persons going that way will be well cared for. This boat is well found, and in charge of careful and attentive officers.

THE WILD DUCK yesterday took out the barge Cambria, of Capt. Gray's fleet, and a loaded lighter, to Steubenville. The Cambria will form one of the Wild Duck's barges through to St. Louis this trip. She leaves at 10 A. M., Friday. Her rates of freight to all points are 25c for heavy and 35c for glassware, &c.

THE passenger steamer Armadillo, Capt. D. H. Swaney, is announced for Evansville, Cairo and St. Louis this day. This boat is all in good trim without reshipping, and offers a fine opportunity to persons going that way. This boat is a light draught, and will meet with no detention.

DUBUQUE.—During a violent storm on Friday night, at Dubuque, several rafts which were tied to the shore above the city, were broken to pieces, and their lumber carried down the river. Dr. McDill lost $1,200 worth. A fleet from Warsaw, Wis., and another from Yellow river, were also separated and carried down the stream.

MEMPHIS.—THE SITUATION OF AFFAIRS.—The river continues to fall steadily, and the danger of a flood is less startling, although the rise coming out of the tributaries will yet swell the volume to the proportions. The Arkansas streams are at fair stage and falling. The weather is clear and warm. Business on the landing was more active yesterday and one or two of the regular packets left with good trips.

THERE are no established rates of freight at St. Louis. Competition is reducing them to very low figures. The Republic and Mississippi are competing for New Orleans freight; the Rubicon competes with them for business to Vicksburg and the Bends; the Phil. Sheridan and Northern Line are competing for Upper Mississippi business, and five boats are competing for Missouri river trips.

JEFFERSONVILLE, June 18.—There is no change in the depth of water since my last report; there is four feet in the pass. Weather clear and cool, with the wind from the north. Mercury at 72, and falling. The Belle Vernon passed down; the towboats Diamond and W. H. Brown, with a heavy tow of empty barges for Pomeroy and Pittsburgh, passed up.

D. M. DRYDEN, Falls Pilot.

DAVENPORT.—NARROW ESCAPE OF A STEAMER.—Recently, as the steamer Reserve was passing Specht's Ferry, up the river, a man on the shore attracted the attention of the Captain by his shouts of "dre" and his gestures of consternation. The Captain rushed to the hurricane deck, and sure enough there was the lattice-work structure over the ladies' cabin in flames. But five minutes more of freedom for the fire would have been a river disaster to record. That man standing on shore at that particular moment was blessed by all the passengers, after he had disappeared from view. But he doesn't know it.

TUESDAY'S St. Louis Republican has the following: The Imperial is on her way to this port with forty empty barges to take a cargo of 150,000 bushels of wheat to Prairie du Chien, from whence it will be transported by rail to Milwaukee. This wheat was brought to this port some months since, and has been held for a fabulous price. The Dubuque Herald says: "The grain will be shipped to Milwaukee where a few bushels of grain will be got the market, as it does in St. Louis." We think if the owners will hold it at Milwaukee for the same price they did in this city, it will glut most any market.

THE Louisville Courier is down on barge lines. The Great Republic is considered a fine boat. That's liberal.

"The disadvantages of the barge towing line, aside from the delays and dangers of snags, sandbars, sinking, &c., are that it has the tendency to cut off the way-trade of the steam packets, while it throws the travel to the railroads, causing very much to the detriment of passenger steamers. The life of the trade of St. Louis, as well as this city, is in having daily lines of elegant, swift and commodious passenger packets, boats similar to the magnificent Great Republic, the finest and most commodious boat that ever belonged to the St. Louis trade."

THE MOUNTAIN STEAMERS.—We copy the following dispatches from Wednesday's St. Louis Democrat. Among the arrivals at Fort Benton we notice the following Pittsburgh boats: Yorktown, Capt. G. W. Ebert; Amelia Poe, Capt. Thomas Poe:

The Missouri—Telegrams from the Mountains.—Goodin's telegram from Lexington, 18th, says: The Columbian passed up at five o'clock A. M., and the Centralia at two P. M. to-day.

The W. J. Lewis passed down this morning. The river has risen six inches since yesterday.

BENTON, June 9.—To John G. Copelin—River rising and in good stage. The Poe and Mountaineer arrived. The Yorktown will be in to-morrow. The prospects are more favorable.

BENTON, June 12.—To John G. Copelin—The Yorktown leaves to-morrow. The Mountaineer left this evening. River raised three inches in the last twenty-four hours.

SAINT PAUL.—Saturday's Pioneer has the following: Yesterday marked an era in the history of steamboating on northwestern rivers, by bringing to our levee the Brooklyn from Green Bay, Wisconsin. The Brooklyn left Green Bay one week ago last Wednesday, with about 90 tons of freight for Saint Paul. She came up the Lower Fox river to Winnebago Lake and through the Upper Fox river to Portage—from there through the canal which connects the Upper Fox with the Wisconsin river, and thence down the Wisconsin into the Mississippi and to St. Paul. This trip is the first of the kind ever made, we believe.

The Upper and Lower Fox rivers are improved on the slack-water plan and between Green Bay and Portage there are twenty-one locks. The Wisconsin river is about four or five feet higher than the Upper Fox, and an abundance of water can be turned from the Wisconsin into the canals. From Green Bay to Portage the distance is one hundred and sixty miles, and from Portage to Prairie du Chien it is one hundred and twenty-eight miles, making the whole distance from Green Bay to the Mississippi river two hundred and twenty-eight miles.
